

From $793,000 Down to $60,000 is the Record

The question of whether a Republican Board of Supervisors will be continued in power will be determined by the electors on Tuesday next, and in making this determination the electors will consider the record and history of the county both under Democratic and Republican regimes.

The Republican party asks for a continuation of its administration based upon its management of county affairs. It believes that the record warrants continuation in power. Its administration of county affairs has been one of achievement and success. It may even be said that the record of the Republican Party in the county of Ulster is unique in the history of the municipalities in the state.

After years of Democratic control, the administration of county affairs was turned over to a Republican Board of Supervisors on January 1, 1906. At that time the county had a bonded indebtedness of $793,000, issued and authorized by previous Democratic boards and including Civil War bonds, court house bonds, jail bonds, county poor house bonds, and bonds issued for turnpike and highway improvements.

At that time there were practically no improved highways in the county. There was no hospital at the County Poor Farm. The county owned in Kingston only the property upon which the Surrogate's Court and County Clerk's Office and the Court House and Jail were located. No provision had been made for expansion or future improvements or additions to these buildings.

With the advent of a Republican Board of Supervisors, the Republicans pledged to the people of the county an honest, economical and efficient administration. They promised and consistently have followed their promise to reduce the indebtedness of the county. They pledged a "pay as you go" system of government, the improvement of highways, and a betterment in the administration of county affairs, commensurate with the advancing needs and conditions of the time.

Their promise has been amply fulfilled. Their record is outstanding in comparison with the administration of county affairs in the state. County business has been conducted without scandal and with comparatively little criticism for nearly a quarter of a century. Their administration and management of county affairs commends the continuance of Republican control in the Board of Supervisors. It is merited by the record which they have made. The facts speak for themselves.

The bonded indebtedness of the county has been reduced from nearly a million dollars to only $60,000 at the present time. The Republicans have paid off the debts incurred by the Democrats for the Civil War bonds, for building the jail, for remodeling the court house and for turnpike and road improvement. There have been built and constructed, and the county has paid for its proportion of the cost of one hundred twenty-seven and a half miles of improved county highways, including both macadam and concrete. They have bought and paid for rights of ways required by the State Highway Department and its predecessors for highway purposes aggregating $350,000.00. They have contributed to the several towns of the county for the construction of county roads under provision of Section 320a of the Highway Law, since 1920 the sum of $682,000.00, thereby relieving the towns of this enormous burden.

With a foresight as to the future need of expansion in county buildings and administration facilities, they have acquired all of the land surrounding the Court House with the exception of the Cordis and Grosby buildings and the Conlin property, located at the corner of Wall and John streets. The parcels acquired include the Sparling property on John street, the Crouch property on Wall street, known as the Argus building, the Dr. Mahan property on John street, the Leader Company building on Wall street, the Van Baren property at the corner of John and Crown street and the Van Valkenburgh property on Crown street; and they acquired these properties at a cost of less than $45,000, a most remarkable accomplishment.

A Republican Board of Supervisors built and paid for a hospital at the county poor farm. The court house and the county clerk's office have been renovated and remodeled and brought to meet the needs

Flood of Buying Orders as Market Closes for 2 Days

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—The stock market was closed today while brokers strove to catch up with the greatest volume of business ever transacted in four days in the history of Wall street.

The Stock Exchange and the Curb Market ended their week yesterday after a three-hour session in which a flood of buying, stimulated by constructive financial news, recouped much of the loss in quoted values suffered in the record-breaking collapse of Monday and Tuesday.

Prices on the Stock Exchange showed net gains ranging from two to 30 points for the day and the maximum gain on the Curb was 72.

Buying orders flooded into the market, attracted by relatively low prices for high grade investment stocks resulting from the devaluation during the last part of the week.

Consequence which had reassured itself Wednesday was further fortified by announcement of the reduction of the new York Federal Reserve discount rate from six to five per cent and of the rate of the Bank of England from six and one-half to six per cent.

Another feature of the day was the reduction of brokers' loans for the week of $1,086,000,000, the greatest drop in history. Bank clearings for the day set a record with $3,853,000,000.

During the three-hour session on the Stock Exchange 7,142,390 shares changed hands, a figure far in excess of the average for a normal five-hour day. The ticker was an hour and 48 minutes behind the market at the close.

When the market opened at noon, two hours later than usual, a large volume of buying power had accumulated. Purchase of stocks in blocks up to 50,000 shares featured the early part of the session.

The rush to buy created a state of confusion comparable with the disorder which attended the frantic efforts to sell during the slump Tuesday when 16,140,000 shares were thrown overboard.

The cut in brokers' loans announced by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from $6,534,000,000 to $5,938,000,000 reflected the slack in security prices during the past week. The reduction brought the loan total to the lowest figure since June 19, last.

The reduction of the discount rate put the figure at which member banks may borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank back to where it was last August 8, when the rate was advanced in an effort to discourage the excessive flow of credit into speculative channels.

The Stock Exchange and the Curb Market will be closed until Monday to give brokers' forces a respite after the ordeal of the biggest week in security trading history and to afford an opportunity for clerical staffs to bring their books up to date.

Closing of the security exchanges does not affect the commodity markets and the New York cotton, coffee and sugar, silk, hide and burlap and jute exchanges remain open as usual. The sugar and coffee exchange will be closed tomorrow, because of holidays in Brazil and France.

Two Injured in An Auto Crash

Mrs. Maria A. Iseman of 257 Washington avenue and John Bange of 37 Clinton avenue were cut and bruised in an automobile accident at Broadway and McDuffie street on Thursday evening when the cars of William Merkle of 182 Bruyn avenue and Garret A. Iseman of 267 Washington avenue collided.

Mrs. Iseman and Mr. Bange were taken to the Kingston Hospital and after their wounds were dressed returned to their homes. Mrs. Iseman was cut about the head and Mr. Bange was cut on the right side of his neck.

Both cars were damaged. Mrs. Iseman was riding with her husband in his Studebaker car while Mr. Merkle was driving a Ford car.

Robinson Answers Robinson.
Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, characterized as "unfair and unjust" in the Senate today the statement by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, blaming the stock market collapse on the prosperity statements of President Hoover. Former President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon. President Hoover, during all his public career, the Indiana asserted, never encouraged any one to buy stocks.

Shufeldt's Appeal Is To The Law Abiding

Some who oppose Judge Shufeldt do so because they have experienced the just penalty of their unfortunate infraction of the law. Judge Shufeldt's appeal is to the law abiding citizens of Kingston, not to criminals.

The City Court is the only court that many of our citizens come in contact with to any considerable extent.

Many of our foreign born citizens get their first conception of the administration of justice in this country through the local court. How important it is that it should be administered through an able, experienced judge.

The voters of the city should carefully consider the qualifications of the candidates for the important office of Judge of the City Court. If experience and ability as a lawyer and judge are what you want, vote for Judge Shufeldt.

Seven Lost When Freighter Sank

Lake Freighter Sank Before Crew Could Reach Life Boats—Twenty-one Saved.

Milwaukee, Nov. 1 (AP).—Six persons, one a woman, were missing, probably drowned, and the body of a seventh had been recovered today as officials inquired into the most recent of Lake Michigan's tragedies—the sinking of the freighter Senator.

Feeling her way through thick fog, the Senator was rammed amidships yesterday by the ore carrier Marquette and sank 20 miles off Port Washington, Wis. The Marquette herself was saved from foundering by rescue tugs and was towed here last night.

Twenty-one persons were saved from the Senator. Among the missing was her captain, George Finch, of Ogdensburg, N. Y.

The missing woman was Mrs. Minnie Gormley, wife of the steward. Several survivors reported seeing her slip from a life raft. Her husband was rescued.

Captain Walter F. Amsbury of the Marquette was reluctant to discuss the collision until after testifying. Members of his crew, however, volunteered the opinion that Captain Amsbury had done all that was humanly possible under the circumstances.

The two freighters loomed suddenly out of the sticky fog and hardly had time to sound a warning before the steel nose of the ore boat rammed into the side of the steel freighter, loaded with automobiles, ripping it open with such a gap that it went down before the crew could reach the life boats. It rolled over on its port side and sank rapidly.

Two of its crew leaped and grabbed the Marquette, saving themselves. A third, Ralph Ellis, Senator radio operator, buckled on a life belt and jumped. He was quickly pulled aboard the ore boat.

Nearly a score of them clung to a life raft and of these, the fishing tug Delos H. Smith picked up 15 within 45 minutes after the crash and carried them to Port Washington. Three others supposedly were picked up by another ship, the Thomas J. Walters, which had not docked early today, apparently heading on to a northern port.

The Senator was eastbound out of Milwaukee for Detroit and other ports with a cargo of 241 automobiles. The Marquette was southbound to Indiana Harbor, Ind., with ore for the steel mills.

Ellis, the Senator's radio man, seeing the impending collision darted into his room and started to send an S O S but the ship listed so soon after the crash he had to abandon his post. The crew of the Marquette was saved in completely but the boat managed to keep afloat until rescue tugs responded to its distress signals. It was towed into port at Milwaukee, badly disabled.

The body recovered was that of Peter Smith, wheelman, of Piquette, N. Y.

Our Growing Population.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young, 155 Elmwood street, a daughter, Edith Beth June, at Benedictine Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. James M. Coughlin, 94 Hurley avenue, a daughter, Jean Theron.

Driver of Bus Pleads Not Guilty To Manslaughter

Henry F. Duffy, Driver of Coast-to-Coast Bus Which Figured in Fatal Crash on the Highland-Milton Road, Arraigned in County Court.

Henry F. Duffy of Albany, driver of the Montreal-New York city bus of the Coast-to-Coast line which struck a Hudson automobile on September 7 on the Highland-Milton road and caused two deaths and injuries to several people, was arraigned in county court Thursday afternoon on a charge of manslaughter, second degree. He was indicted by the recent grand jury. A plea of not guilty to the charge was entered and bail in the sum of $5,000 was given. Duffy was represented by A. W. Lent and George Rusk.

The indictment grows out of an accident involving the bus and a Hudson sedan of Mr. deLest who was driving north to visit relatives in Kingston. The crash took place on a stretch of road on a slight turn. The bus it is alleged was being driven to the left of the road and side-swiped the Hudson car demolishing it and inflicting injuries to several of the passengers of the bus as well as to the occupants of the Hudson car. Mrs. Mary Dean deLest and her son, Jan, Jr., died. The pavement at the time was wet and it is alleged the bus was traveling at a fast clip and was not stopped until it had traveled some distance beyond the scene of the crash.

Not Guilty, Says Roberts.
George Roberts was arraigned on a charge of escaping jail and entered a plea of not guilty. He was represented by Frank W. Brooks and unable to provide bail was placed in jail. Roberts was being brought to the county jail from New Paltz to answer a charge lodged against him when he asked to step into a toilet on the ground floor. He stepped in and then stepped out a window in the toilet. For months he was not located. District Attorney Traver, located the assistance of detectives who trailed Roberts to various places throughout the country but always arrived to find their man gone. Some time ago he was picked up by detectives on Long Island where he was employed. He was brought back to face the original charge and an indictment charging escape from jail was brought.

Enters Plea of Not Guilty.
Chauncey Auchmoody was also arraigned on a charge of violation of section 452 of the Penal Law, failure to support his minor children. A plea of not guilty was entered and bail fixed. Walter J. Miller appeared for defendant.

Baldwin Denies Assertions.
London, Nov. 1 (AP).—While the Labor ministry cheered, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and former premier, rose to his own defense today in parliament to deny published assertions he had fathered expressions of Viceroy Irwin of India regarding government views on eventual dominion status for India.

A Salubrious Party.
A salubrious party with games for children and bridge for adults will be held at the Jewish Community House, lower Broadway, at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, November 2, for the benefit of Girl Scout Troop No. 2. The children are invited as are grownups and a good time is promised.

Albert B. Fall Gets One Year, Fined $100,000

In View of Fall's Ill Health Judge Did Not Impose Maximum Sentence of $200,000 and Three Years.

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—Albert B. Fall, former cabinet officer convicted of receiving a $100,000 bribe, today was sentenced to one year in jail and fined $100,000 after a motion for a new trial had been denied by Justice Hitz in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Fall, found guilty last week of receiving a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil operator, was granted bond pending an appeal.

Under the law the maximum sentence that could have been given the former cabinet member was three times the amount he received or a $300,000 fine and three years in a federal prison.

The defense attorneys made a brief and formal motion at the opening of court and the proceedings were over in a few minutes.

Justice Hitz said Fall had been in good physical condition he would have imposed full sentence but that, in view of his health he would have suspended sentence if it were to take effect at once.

The court let defense counsel understand that if the appeal were dropped he would suspend the jail sentence so long as Fall's physical condition was such as it is now.

Doheny Not in Court.
Doheny, accused of giving Fall the bribe in return for a lease on the Navy's Elk Hills, California, oil reserve, was not in court when the former secretary of the Interior was sentenced. And in contrast to the tumultuous scenes in court when Fall was found guilty, there was no demonstration today.

Fall showed no signs of emotion. Mrs. Fall sat beside him and his two daughters were among the spectators. Mrs. Fall leaned forward over her husband's right shoulder and talked with him and patted him on the left shoulder.

Fall said he had no statement to make at this time. He waited for fifteen minutes for his new bond of $5,000 to be prepared for his signature. It was signed by the National Surety Company.

While he was waiting his daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Joann Elliott, stepped to his side and Mrs. Chase, sitting on the arm of his chair, threw her arms around his shoulders.

Fall's three attorneys were present, including Mark Thompson, who collapsed in the court room when the jury rendered its verdict.

Defense counsel, headed by Frank Hogan, based their plea for a new trial largely on Justice Hitz's charge to the jury, which they contended was prejudicial and on the admission of evidence regarding the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair.

Man, Fighting Fire, Overcome

Charles Van DeBogart of 183 Greenkill Avenue Overcome by Smoke Fighting Fire at His Home, But Was Revived—Fire Department Kept Busy.

While fighting a fire that broke out in an enclosed wooden stairway at his home, 135 Greenkill avenue, Charles Van DeBogart was overcome by smoke, but was revived shortly after the firemen arrived at the house in response to a still alarm of fire about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mr. Myers attended Mr. Van DeBogart. The damage to the enclosed stairway was not heavy.

Thursday evening the fire department was called out for two false alarms of fire turned in from Boxes 1 and 66.

The fire department also responded to a telephone call to 170 Hasbrouck avenue but there was no fire. A woman had called but instead of the fire department she wanted the police as some boys were carrying away a bench from her property.

Thursday afternoon the firemen also responded to a still alarm at 129 Albany street, where smoke from the chimney had entered the rooms. There was no damage.

YOUTHS HAD A GOOD TIME HALLOWEEN NIGHT.
Although the passing of Halloween was not a quiet event by any means, the celebrators kept within the limits of the law, not one arrest involving merry-makers or players of youthful pranks having been listed on the police records.

As soon as dusk fell large groups of youngsters boisterously went through the streets playing pranks on their friends while hiding behind various makeups, many of which were very clever.

Parties and dances were enjoyed by older folks, many of whom attended the annual Costume Benefit Ball of Joyce-Schrick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the armory. It was estimated that approximately 1,500 enjoyed the event.

Bandit Trial in Supreme Court Going to Jury

In the Loch Sheldrake Casino robbery trial Thursday afternoon in Supreme court the first witness to take the stand was Mark Richard, Monticello correspondent for the Middletown Times-Herald, who attended the hearing and arraignment of Calabrese. Mr. Richard could only testify that one of the defendant's cars was discolored and that there was a cut over the same optic.

Howard Gildersleeve, who was serving a term for petty larceny in the Sullivan county jail at the time of Calabrese's stay, testified that on the night in question, he heard cries of "I don't know where" repeated several times. The cries, he said, came from the floor above him, and he supposed that they were made by Calabrese as he and Moses were the only two prisoners on the top floor.

In cross examination, Mr. Gildersleeve could not be certain that the cries were made by the defendant, he could not tell when the date of the cries was, neither could he remember whether or not he knew when the defendant entered the jail.

Paul Scire, brother of one of the defendants, was the next to testify. Mr. Scire said that on the night of the robbery, his wife held a birthday party. Her birthday was two weeks previous to that date, but she was sick so the affair was postponed. On the night of the party, he said that his brother, the defendant, came to his home about 9 o'clock, with a lady friend, Eleanor Barrett, and that they both remained at the fair until midnight. Mr. Scire repeated the names of many relatives who attended the party. On cross questioning, he was asked to repeat these names and give the occupations of the men, which he did.

Attended Party.
Miss Barrett, who is 18 years old, verified Mr. Scire's statements. She said that Joseph picked her up in a Packard sedan, and that they rode around the city for two hours. She then went to eat, and the car was returned to the rental station. Later she said the defendant picked her up in another car, and that they went to the party after a short ride, and remained there until midnight. The defendant then took her home.

Mrs. Scire, mother of the defendant, testified through an interpreter. She also said that her son came to the party early in the evening and did not leave until midnight. She remained at her daughter-in-law's home, she said.

Mrs. Rose Terossi, life long friend of the Calabrese's, said that she stayed with Mrs. Calabrese every Saturday night. She said that Charles came home on every Saturday evening with his father, Mrs. Calabrese, she said, acted as her mother, who had died when she was a young child.

Defendant Called.
The defendant, Joseph Scire, was then called to testify. He related the story of his life from the evening of the robbery. Joseph said that he lived with his parents at 36 Monroe street. On the day of the robbery, he said that he had picked up Miss Barrett late in the afternoon, and that they had rode around for two hours before he took the girl to dinner and returned the car. He then took another car from the rental station in the evening, and left $25 and a watch and ring as security. The two rode around some more, and then went to the party, where they remained until midnight. After the party, he took the girl home, and then met some friend whom he could not remember. The two of them talked until 1 a. m. and he returned the car and went home and went to bed.

He said that he was arrested on January 19 at 2 in the morning. The detectives did not tell him why he was arrested, he said. They took him to the Oak Park station and asked him about Monticello, Loch Sheldrake and Moses. He maintained his innocence throughout these questions, he said. A man known as "Doc" stated that he identified the defendant as one of the robbers, but Joseph said he did not know who the man was, and had never seen him before. He also said that he did not know anyone by the name of Selo, but later recognized Moses as one he had known as "Al."

He was confronted, he said, with the books at the rental station and admitted using the cars in question, but said he didn't go to Monticello. He said that he was returned to the station and mistreated in much the same manner as the other defendant, but that he maintained he was not implicated any of the time.

Spent Week in the Tombs.
He spent the next week in the Tombs, and was released when a charge of carrying a gun and blackjack was dropped. The Monticello officers and Sergeant Hopkins of the State Troopers, then took him to the Monticello jail, where he was again mistreated, he said. He spent about a week in the county jail. He claimed that he did not know the other defendant until the time of their jailing.

On cross-examination, the defendant Scire stated that he never received his watch and ring back from the rental station. He forgot to get them. He explained that he was returned part of the money, but that the remainder was kept in payment for the car.

The testimony of Joseph lasted almost an hour and he was called on for a brief stay, returning to America within the month.

Tunnies Go To Switzerland.
Berlin, Nov. 1 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney, the latter fully recovered from a recent abdominal operation, left Berlin today for Switzerland, where they will remain for a brief stay, returning to America within the month.

A Salubrious Party.
A salubrious party with games for children and bridge for adults will be held at the Jewish Community House, lower Broadway, at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, November 2, for the benefit of Girl Scout Troop No. 2. The children are invited as are grownups and a good time is promised.

Republican Rally
Largely Attended
Thursday Night

County Judge Fowler, Corporation Counsel Fleming and County Attorney Groves Principal Speakers at Last Rally.

The last Republican rally to be held before election in Pythian Hall, Broadway and Thomas street, was held Thursday evening when County Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Corporation Counsel Harry M. Fleming and County Attorney Robert G. Groves were the principal speakers. Attorney Daniel McGowan also spoke briefly calling attention to the fine record made by City Judge Augustus Shufeldt and urging that every candidate on the Republican ticket this fall be supported. Dr. Wright J. Smith, the Republican candidate for sheriff, was also present and spoke briefly.

Attorney J. Edward Conway presided at the rally and introduced the speakers. Mr. Conway urged that the entire ticket be supported and he, and the other speakers, warned against the danger of the complimentary vote.

The theme of all the speakers was the record of accomplishment in both city and county that has been made by the Republican party.

Corporation Counsel Fleming in his talk, said:

We are living in a day of rapid changes to an extent that it is difficult to maintain a correct perspective. The change has been evident in our political life, although possibly not as rapid or as marked. Some of you remember the days of the torchlight parade, when the voters dressed in gay uniforms, marched in support of the candidate of their choice. The parade with its band and the meeting with the old time orator was the method used to bring out the vote. Today with the radio, newspapers widely read, the general advance along educational lines, less display and more facts concerning the party policy and the candidate are demanded, and must be forthcoming if success is to follow.

We have, therefore, become accustomed to ask of the party and candidate an account of stewardship, rather than to rely upon pre-election promises. Fortunately the Republican party has schooled itself and candidates so to do, and this is one of the important reasons why it has been entrusted with power over a long period of years, with but short intervals of change.

The Republican party in this judicial district, in the assembly district, the county, the city and the towns has exemplified the policy of the party in the state and nation in a very creditable manner. This year is no exception to other years.

For the high office of Justice of the Supreme Court, the candidate of the party is a man learned in law, of long experience and practice, interested in public life. He has served his home county over a period of years as district attorney and county judge, and has been active in civic affairs, in many ways giving of himself in unselfish devotion of time and effort to the public service. He is well qualified and worthy of election to the high office for which he has been nominated.

We have had many able men represent this district in the assembly. Assemblyman Davis in ability, industry and influence maintains the standard at its best. Wright J. Smith as a former member of the board of supervisors, and as former shortly makes an unimpeachable appeal to our citizens: his record commands itself to us.

The County Record.

The Republican party in Ulster county has been organized for a period of a century, and presents an example of continuous development and growth. The party has been administered over this period, through the years of the war and following, in days of constantly changing times, and revolutionary methods in the construction of highways, with a steady reduction of the bonded debt to a point where it is now substantially obliterated, and means, in the very near future, a county with no bonded debt. If a similar course is followed in any other political subdivision of this, or of any other state, it would be refreshing to hear of it.

It is generally believed that our cities are the most difficult units in which to operate efficiently under our form of government. The tendency of late has been to vest greater power in the municipality, and the hand of the state government is reaching lightly upon the cities. The responsibility at home is correspondingly greater. Are we measuring up to it? We have been experimenting with commission forms of government, and with city managers and in many ways indicating that we were plunging our faith in part at least, to new forms. Some new forms have been tried, but change in form will never bring about better local conditions if we overlook the all-important element, the type and character of the men that get life into the inanimate form.

The City Administration.

Two years ago, in our local campaign, the Republican party and its candidates sought your support upon a platform that called for a business administration of city affairs. A new form of local government was proposed, but the injection of new life into the present form. The past two years have fully demonstrated that there has been no breach of faith. A few of the outstanding accomplishments are:

Current liabilities have been substantially all cared for.

The several departments have been actually putting into practice the plan of keeping within the budget allotments.

The work of reconstructing the city hall has been carried to completion in a most creditable manner. One of the greatest assets a community can have, a good water supply, has been assured for the next quarter of a century by the admirable administration of the water board in carrying to completion within the past two years the extended improvements to our water system.

The public parks have been extended.

The credit of the city has been maintained at a high standard.

The tax rate has been reduced.

For the first time in the history of our city, we have had a mayor devoting all of his time to city affairs; his only business is the city business. To this undivided attention of the mayor to city affairs, his ability and experience in business matters generally, and city affairs in particular, to his innate sense of fairness in giving full credit to his co-workers and associates for their part, and thus inspiring in them a desire to give of their best, we attribute to a very large extent the unprecedented success which has crowned the efforts of the party and officials of the city of Kingston in the administration of the past two years.

In this work the mayor has had so many loyal supporters and no more efficient helper than the alderman-at-large, C. Ray Everett.

The City Court

A word concerning our city court, the court that comes in closer contact with the people generally than any other, and requires a judge of learning and experience, one who has and will exercise to small degree of patience and above all else, whose honesty and integrity in the administration of the affairs of the office are beyond question. The present city judge has filled the office with credit to himself and community. The proper administration of the office of necessity will leave some displeased, and upon an occasion such as this they will be heard in opposition, which necessitates an appeal for the support of all our citizens who are interested in keeping the administration of the city court upon a plane that will continue to bring credit upon the city as a law abiding community.

Stand on Record

County Judge Fowler and County Attorney Groves called attention to the fact that the Republican party had a long record of actual accomplishment behind it, and that the candidates on the ticket this fall were well qualified and should be returned to office on the record they had made.

The rally was largely attended, and all of the speakers were heartily applauded.

THE END OF PROHIBITION
IN NEW YORK

Nothing, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP)—After a plebiscite in which government sale of liquor received greater popular approval than prohibition, leaders of various factions today were convinced that after also passing the result would be an end to prohibition in New York.

New York Prohibition Act?

Are you in favor of the sale of alcoholic liquor under a government control act?
A majority voted yes on each question, but the vote for government control amounted to more than 54,000 the number who voted for retention of the Prohibition Law.
Abolishment of prohibition by New South would have the small vote.

Pet Squirrel in Church

The strains of Lebanonia resounded through a Kansas City church. Just as the last "I do" was repeated at the blossoming altar, a bit of fur dropped lightly to the floor of a nearby window. A flash of gray and white, the body of a squirrel, landed squarely on his mistress' head. He sat bolt upright on his throne of orange blossoms and lace, his bushy tail curled over his back, and gave the audience stare for stare. After a slight pause the bridegroom gravely removed Perry from his seat and unceremoniously dropped him out the window.

Talk Warning

A man who owns one of those Pray-ayou-entire-banglows on Long Island entered a large sporting goods store to purchase a canoe. The salesman tried to sell him a launch. Finally he left without buying anything. "I wanted a canoe," said the man. "The salesman got me interested in a launch. Then I became disinterested with a canoe and not having money enough to get a launch I didn't buy anything!"

Super solemnity.—New Orleans Item-Tribune.

No Classification

He was a good-looking little man and very chatty, and it was unfortunate that he should have got into to sell a carriageful of passengers. He belted upon them all, and tried to start a conversation in two or three directions, but without success. Silence reigned; the interest in news papers was intense. The motioned one to, sent into silence, but at the first stopping place he got out, and before slamming the carriage door, witheringly remarked, "We're with you, by gum!"

We'd Like to See Your Last Year's FUR COAT!

Perhaps your coat has outlived its style—but, with a bit of remodeling, can keep pace with this year's coats. Or maybe it has felt the wear and tear in "spots" and deserves some scientific replying. Then again, a changing may be all it needs. (We have an expert, and exclusive process that makes the fur glaze with a new-found beauty.)

Don't wait—NOW is the time to have your Fur Coat re-upholstered for the coming Winter Season.

Pulaski Portrait For Senate House

The Polish people of Kingston, through the Rev. Francis P. Brovski, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, have presented to the trustees of the Senate House Association the beautiful portrait of the Count Casimir Pulaski, one of the generals of the American Revolution, the 150th anniversary of whose death recently was observed with great impressiveness in this city. In acknowledging the receipt of the portrait, Judge Clearwater, president of the Senate House Association, writes to Father Brovski: "We are glad to add to our collection of portraits of men who so generously and valiantly assisted in the founding of this Republic that of our great countryman the Count Casimir Pulaski; especially are we pleased to receive it from the members of so important and distinguished a community as are the Polish people of Kingston. May I ask you to convey to them and to accept for yourself our grateful thanks."

Seeks to Hold Wife to Secure Loan to Hubby

Itio de Janeiro.—Seraphim Carvalho came over from Portugal, but in time found out that fortunes are not made in this country with proverbial rapidity and grew to miss his worthy consort, Albertina, whom he had left back in the old country.

He had not found the legendary tree where the "patacas" grow in bunches, according to what they told him back in the home village. The "pataca" is an old Portuguese coin of low value. For this reason, Carvalho had not achieved his anticipated phenomenal success. He appealed to friend Manoel Pinheiro for a loan to pay his wife's passage across from Europe.

"Willingly," said Señor Pinheiro, counting over the necessary money. A few days ago the ship from Portugal docked and Seraphim was dutifully at the pier, awaiting his spouse. So was Manoel Pinheiro.

"Well," said Pinheiro to Seraphim, as Manoel Carvalho descended the gangplank, "I'm very sorry, but I'll have to take charge of your wife as security for that cash I lent you. There's no hurry about paying."

"What?"

"You heard me. Come along, Albertina."

The police were forced to intervene, and the matter was settled at the police court in Carvalho's favor. The disappointed creditor retired grumbling.

Tardieu Will Try To Form Ministry

Paris, Nov. 1 (AP).—Andre Tardieu, French Moderator, today accepted President Doumergue's invitation to form a cabinet and become France's next Premier.

Taking the mandate returned to the president yesterday by Senator Etienne Clementel, radical Socialist, the brilliant former high commissioner in the United States set out to build a government of the center and right center, where M. Clementel and Edouard Daladier had failed to construct one from the left.

Like those two, the new Premier-designate today had the promise of Aristide Briand to serve as Foreign Minister in a new government. Political circles regarded the promise as conditional upon M. Tardieu's not going too far to the right. M. Daladier is going too far to the left, and the former Premier who then withdrew his support.

M. Tardieu's efforts today to get together his cabinet and France's eleven days minus a government was hampered with passing of All Saint's Day, which in France is a public holiday. It was not believed he would be able to announce his list of ministers—17 at all—until Saturday. In that event the decrease would appear in the official journal Sunday and parliament would resume at the beginning of the week, which is essential if the national budget is to be voted before the end of the year.

M. Tardieu's task was regarded as peculiarly difficult in political circles, which pointed out he would have to go more to the right for a majority than M. Daladier and Senator Clementel, since many Radical Socialists look askance at him, although he has offered some port-folios to their leaders.

World's Largest Rosary?

The Portuguese claim that the largest rosary is that on the monument of the Madonna of Peace in Funchal, Madeira. We know of no other rosary for which the claim is made. —Washington Star.

Cigarette Paper
Essentially all the cigarette papers in this country come from France, which makes the cigarette paper for almost the entire world. These papers are so thin and light that it takes several hundred of the little sheets that go around the cigarette to make an ounce. While commonly known as rice paper, this paper is not made from rice, but from flax and hemp trimmings, only new material being used. The flax and hemp is cut into small particles, thoroughly mixed and ground almost to a dust. Then it is put through a washing process, crushed into a pulp and rolled out into paper.

Potential water power, in Ozark streams of south Missouri is estimated at 600,000 horse power.

Rochester Needs John Osterhout

John C. Osterhout is the Republican candidate for supervisor of the town of Rochester, and he should be elected by a large majority. Mr. Osterhout has been unable to make as active a canvass of his town as he desired, owing to sickness and death in his family, but that fact will not prevent those who know him in supporting him at the polls next Tuesday.

Mr. Osterhout is well qualified to fill the position of supervisor and if he is elected, as he undoubtedly will be, he will work for the best interests of the taxpayers of the town of Rochester, and there is no question but that he will ably represent his town in the county legislature.

HUNTS HIS SQUAW AND OTHER MAN

Miss Bruce Says She Eloped
Like "Paleface."

Rapid City, S. D.—"Indian women who elope just like 'paleface' women," complains Long Wolf, full blooded Sioux, who is searching the Indian reservations of South Dakota and the territory adjacent for his erring wife, who eloped with another warrior of the tribe—John Poor Thunder.

If he comes up with the elopist Long Wolf promises to send the wife under to the "happy hunting ground" of the Sioux via the knife or six shooter route. The deserted husband was in Rapid City recently striving to get some trace of the elopist.

Until about four months ago Long Wolf and his wife had lived happily on the Pine Ridge reservation, south-east of Rapid City. At that time Long Wolf joined the 301 Wild West show, his wife accompanying him on their show route.

It was while the show was in a city in the eastern section of South Dakota that his wife met Poor Thunder, who appears to be the Lechelle of the Sioux tribe. His love-making with the wife of Long Wolf must have been fast and furious, for it was only a few days after the two had first met until they turned up missing.

Long Wolf at once resigned his place with the show and started on the trail of the elopist. He traced them to various places on the Pine Ridge reservation, but in each instance when he reached the place where they were reported to be they had again fled. The trail is said to have finally led to Rapid City, but here the wronged husband was unable to find any trace of them.

It is thought they may have doubled back and gone to a remote part of the Pine Ridge reservation, or they may have made their way through the Black Hills to eastern Wyoming. While in Rapid City Long Wolf stated he would keep on their trail, if necessary, the remainder of the fall and all winter, as he was determined to punish the Indian "scalawag" who robbed him of his wife.

Scientist to Explore

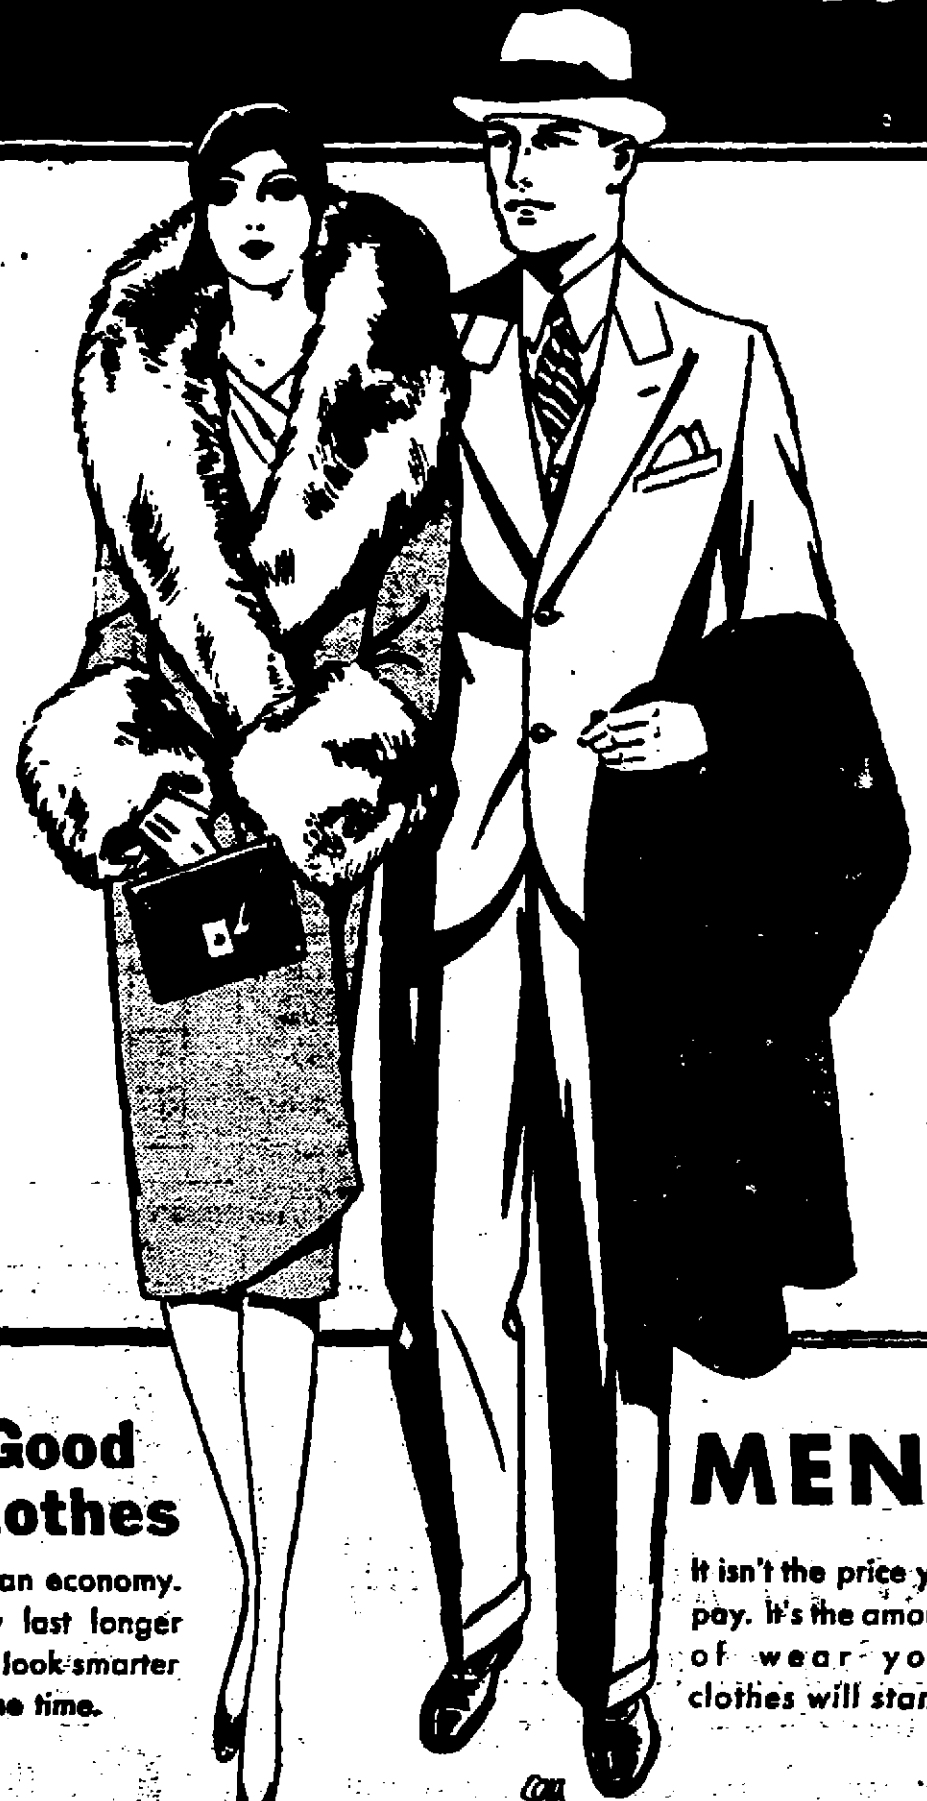

Mystery Meteor Hole

Winslow, Ariz.—With a mysterious underground river cemented off, miners have deepened a shaft by which D. M. Berringer, Pittsburgh steel engineer and an amateur scientist, hopes to explore Meteor Crater, a hole one mile wide and 800 feet deep, in the limestone plains twenty miles south of here.

Farthest North Birth
Ottawa.—Addelkettia, a baby Eskimo who recently arrived in this world at the Beche peninsula, has the distinction of having been born farther north than any other human being of whom there is any record. Addelkettia's father is Ahkeoon, an Eskimo hunter and guide at the Royal Canadian Mounted Police post at Beche and on the baby's arrival he at once had Corporal Amsdell of the R. C. M. P. fill out a birth certificate.

Wall Paper Is 2,000 Years Old
According to recent research, China was the first nation to make use of wall paper. Traces have been discovered of wall paper being used for ritual purposes more than 2,000 years ago.

The New Barber Wonders Why the Democratic Machine Publicity Committee Does Not Credit More of its Candidates With Being Good Ball Players.

"Do you know that the Democratic machine publicity committee seems to be overlooking a ball," said the busy barber, with a smile, as the customer entered his shop this morning.

"How's that?" asked the customer.

"Is not calling attention to the fact that Gene Carey, its candidate for mayor, is a ball player," explained the barber.

"Well, maybe he's not," argued the customer.

"Anyway," said the barber, "they seem to think that a candidate for city judge must be a ball player. Go back a few years and there was Harry Schrick, who organized the Colonials, and this year the machine has picked on Bud Culloton, another former Colonial."

"But Bud was a good ball player," interrupted the customer.

"Sure he was and is," agreed the barber, "but the funny thing about it all is that the Democrats are telling all about how good a ball player Bud is and saying mighty little as to his qualifications for holding down the job of city judge."

"Probably they are dishing for the sporting vote," suggested the customer.

"Well, it takes all kinds of bait to catch some kind of fish," said the barber.

"What I can't understand, however," said the customer, "is how they happened to pick on Gene Carey to run for mayor this fall."

"That's an easy one," said the barber. "Harry Schrick and Bill
Martin couldn't agree on which one of them should be the candidate.
Bill said Harry couldn't have it and Harry said Bill couldn't, and to avoid a splitup in the party they picked on Gene as the dark horse."

"But I thought Harry was the real boss of the Democratic machine," interrupted the customer.

"He is—up to a certain point," replied the barber.

"Then who selects Gene's cabinet for him, Harry or Bill?"

"There is one thing you can be positive about," replied the barber.
"It won't be Bill."

HEAVY SNOW AND SLEET STORM IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, Nov. 1 (AP).—Repair crews were sent out today to restore telephone and telegraph service between here and points east and west, interrupted by a heavy snow and sleet storm.

Snow falling with blizzard intensity brought down wires and poles along a stretch 150 miles to the west and 65 miles east of here yesterday. The only line of communication open was to St. Paul, Minn.

Within the city, light and power lines were down putting homes in darkness and stopping street car service.

The storm was general throughout Manitoba. The greatest damage centered about Winnipeg.

Thousands of men and women in

Nu-Erb. They declare that this mod-even in cases where everything else had failed. Nu-Erb is a preparation of well known herbs, roots and which brings amazing relief to the sufferer. As an example of the splendid work that this medicine is doing, take the case of Mr. Donald

"For the past year, I have sufand bits of sour, undigested food came up in my throat, like vine-

Combustion in Poultry

Flocks Warned Owners

Raymond, Calif.—Bunches and clucks of this section, as well as products of the University of California, are greatly concerned over the recent outbreak of combustion here.

The combustion in among poultry flocks, one of the major Howard is destined, and there are several theories as to its cause, although all authorities agree that it is contagious and once it enters a flock drastic measures are necessary for control.

Deficiency in diet is sometimes blamed, and the feeding of additional bran, meat, or salt in some instances will check the epidemic.

Warding out of the chief combustion in a flock often checks what appears to be the psychology of imitation.

Dear Editor:

A FURNITURE dealer today gave me the lowdown on the economics of the country.

"Our trouble is all due to wartime prosperity," he said. "A lot of people got into business who hadn't any right to be, and they've kept themselves going with forced sales."

"The farmers had the water squeezed out of their holdings right after the war, but many business men are still feeling the pinch."

I hope to live long enough to hear a politician make a speech about how all of us can make money. But maybe the business men will get along better if politicians just leave them alone.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

HORSE CHESTNUTS

WHEN you carry a horse chestnut in your pocket to cure or ward off rheumatism, it only shows that you have not quite outgrown the treachery of your ancestors. That trees were the abode of supernatural beings, if not gods themselves, was a belief common to all our European progenitors and the lingering remnants of it are frequently found in modern superstitions. It existed in such strength even down to classical days that ancient Jupiter, of the Roman capitol was nothing more nor less than an oak tree.

In those old days certain trees were supposed to exert a beneficent influence upon certain diseases. Thus the ash as a tree-god cured hernia and its leaves were a specific against the bite of serpents. In some parts of England today there is a custom of passing a child afflicted with congenital hernia through the growing ash in expectation of a cure; and there is a New England superstition that a snake will not crawl under an ash tree.

The chestnut tree god apparently specialized in rheumatism, for it was the true chestnut that was originally carried as a rheumatic antidote, and according to the American Folk-lore society, that custom is still "somewhat general in the United States." But in New England and the Middle West the horse chestnut is the thing; probably because it is called a chestnut, looks like a chestnut—especially like the chestnut of southern Europe—and being larger than the true chestnut (Castanea) ought to be a more powerful appeal to the chestnut tree god.

Vets' Ball Was Great Success

Joyce-Schrick Post Costume Benefit Ball Enjoyed By Large Crowd—Entertainment, Grand March and Dancing.

Joyce-Schrick Post, No. 1385, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a "treasure" outfit of ex-servicemen, that has sponsored a number of successful social activities during the past year, added another to its list Thursday night when the organization's fourth annual Costume Benefit Ball was held at the armory.

The big drill shed, beautifully decorated in orange and black, punctuated by goblets, owls, black cats and other Halloween figures, was crowded with costumed merry-makers, who fully enjoyed the delightful evening planned by the vets.

A concert by Maiseholder's Commanders opened the program. It was of a very pleasing variety and paved the way for the entertainment that followed. All of the performers were generously applauded for their efforts, manifesting that the public wholly endorsed the taste of the vets in choosing entertainment.

The program consisted of vocal and instrumental selections by Prince Harvey formerly of Station WGBI and "Shuttle Along," dance numbers by Miss Ella Mae Longo, singing and comedy by the Radio Trio, Joe McGill, Vincent Ott and Ray Duffley, the latter acting as master of ceremonies; dance specialty by Miss "Mickey" McGlynn of the Linton Dance Studio and Mark Huling and his "almost human" seal. Miss McGlynn's number was not scheduled. She consented to entertain late Thursday and did her number in a very pleasing way.

Following the entertainment assembly dancing was held until 11 o'clock. Then everything ceased, the lights were dimmed and a cornetist of Maiseholder's Commanders, who furnished very good music for the ball, sounded taps.

After this feature the Grand March was held. It showed off a brilliant array of costumes that furnished a real problem for the judges. They finally picked the following prize winners: Mrs. Bronstein of Wall street, dressed as a Spanish senorita; first; Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald, in Colonial costume, second; in the prettiest costume division. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sherry, garbed as savages and Miss Helen Pratt, as a Japanese mission, took first and second prizes respectively in the most original costume division. Rodney Donnelly and E. J. Modjeska were awarded first and second prizes respectively for having the most comical costumes. Donnelly was dressed as an Indian. Modjeska as a Scotchman.

Costume judges were Morton Mack, commander of Kingston Post, American Legion; Lieutenant Carl Eckerstrom of Battery B, 156th Field Artillery; William Van Valkenburg, Mrs. Samuel Stern Mann and Mrs. Raymond Woodard of the American Legion Auxiliary and Miss Rose Davis of Brooklyn. They were named by Bernard V. Mosch.

When the prize awarding was over Maiseholder's Commanders went into a medley of old fashioned waltz tunes that brought all to the dance floor for a period of pleasure that lasted until the early hours of this morning.

Between dances refreshments served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Joyce-Schrick Post were enjoyed. The ladies and veterans received many comments for their efforts which made the ball one of the most successful ever held in the armory.

During the evening Master of Ceremonies Duffley asked the patrons not to forget the Victory Ball of the American Legion to be held at the armory on November 11. At the event there will be a high class entertainment program and good music for dancing.

Valuable Discovery in Tuning Church Bells

A church bell made from the finest bell metal may give forth a harsh, unpleasant sound, due to the fact that it is out of tune with itself. The stroke of a single bell sounds to us like one note, and until very recently even the most expert bell makers have not realized that the sound is really made up of five separate notes. The five notes must be in tune with one another in order that the bell may give forth a harmonious sound. What we then hear is a combination of what is known as the strike note; the nominal, which is an octave above the strike note; the hum, which is an octave below, and the third and fifth.

This recent discovery regarding the harmonics of bells has made possible the new art of bell tuning, a revival of what for two centuries was considered a lost art. The large bells are inverted on a huge turntable and revolved while the metal is pored away from the inside until it is correctly shaped to produce the harmonious tones.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Power of Calculation in Infants Instinct?

Andre Lenoir, a Belgian boy, is stated to be able, at the age of two years, to multiply any two five-figure numbers accurately and without hesitation. Whether this is an exaggeration or not I am unable to say, but every now and then the phenomenon of the "calculating boy" crops up and astonishes the world. The feats of these wonder-children appear to be done by a sort of instinct, and sometimes the apparently magical power is lost as soon as a real knowledge of mathematics is gained.

A well-known calculating boy was George Parker Bidder, who was born in 1808, and was exhibited in his childhood as an "arithmetical marvel." He became an engineer and was associated with Robert Stephenson in the London and Birmingham—afterward the London and North-Western railway—and was a founder of the Electric Telegraph company and president of the Institution of Civil Engineers. Among his best-known works are the Victoria docks.

Profits in Marsh Land

With proper care a bit of marshland, generally considered worthless, may be made to yield a profit. The tendency has been to drain such a piece of land and then cultivate it. Sometimes this works out, but often not. Instead of this, such wet areas may be more successfully utilized for the production of fish, wild ducks and geese, and beaver and muskrats. Wet areas may also be made to produce vast quantities of food suitable for feeding and producing millions of ducks, geese and other waterfowl, and certain fur-bearing animals. Life that would add materially to our supplies of attractive food as well as afford recreation through hunting, with either camera or gun.

Towns With Historic Names

Names famous in British history and literature are found in a small district of southern Ontario, Canada. Here is the city of London, one of the most important of the province, located on the Thames river. Less than fifty miles away is the city of Stratford, which, as in the Shakespearean tradition, is located on the Avon. Nearby is a town which bears the name of the great dramatist, while another community in the region is called Waterloo. Not far from Stratford is the city of Kitchener, which before the World war was called Berlin.—New York Times.

"Well, gee whizz!" complained Willie, the other night, on being served the neck of another chicken. "What on it? A showaway?"

At least we think it may be misleading with success that the dream reformers had far less to criticize than they ever found before.

On account of various misunderstandings around the house during the day, Wife Willy was given one of the new sea-ton effects the other night.

A naturalist—possibly the one who discovered that bugs are one-eyed—says that familiarity is not the result of the average system.

One Cent-A-Word Advs. Bring Results

From $793,000 Down to $60,000 is the Record

of a pressing present day demand. Within the past year they have built and constructed or have under construction 20 bridges relieving the towns of the county of an expense aggregating $110,000. These were in most cases the bridges destroyed in the recent flood in the Rondout Valley.

They have purchased a site for and made ready the grounds for a new tuberculosis hospital. They established and put into operation a Widow's Pension system, which has kept together unfortunate families which previously had to be separated. All these things they have done and accomplished on their promised "pay as you go" basis; and notwithstanding this record of improvement and advancement they have reduced the county debt approximately three-quarters of a million dollars, which no other municipality in the state of New York can boast of having done. On the contrary the indebtedness of every municipality of the state has constantly risen.

This policy of reduction of funded debt and "pay as you go" was diametrically opposed to the policy followed by the Democrats who preceded the Republicans in power. Their policy was to issue bonds for public improvements payable many years hence without scientific financing or without consideration of financial results. This resulted in a condition where the taxpayers of the county of Ulster have paid out in interest upon the bonds issued for building the Court House and Jail, under Democratic administration, an amount equal to or in excess of the principal of the debt itself. The bonds could not be paid off until they fell due because no provision was made in their issuance for redemption prior to maturity. Instead of issuing these bonds serially so that the same would fall due from year to year, they issued them payable in large sums at one maturity date without providing a sinking fund or method to meet their maturity, something that no business corporation would think of countenancing.

But not alone did the Republicans improve administrative conditions, they also instituted county governmental reforms. In the days of Democratic control the bills audited by the Board of Supervisors for the Sheriff, County Clerk and Coroners had reached a point verging on scandal.

The bills of a Democratic sheriff in 1904 amounted to upwards of $22,000.00, the coroners' bills under one Democratic administration in one year amounted to $7,500.00, and the bills of a Republican County Clerk amounted to $7,358.24. To meet this condition the Republican Board of Supervisors procured the passage of a law placing the offices of the Sheriff, County Clerk and Coroners upon a salary basis, instead of a fee system as previously. This has resulted in reducing the expenses of the Sheriff's office, notwithstanding that there are three more employees, and it has put the County Clerk's Office on a basis where the receipts of the office practically meet the expenditures. And where the coroners' bills were formerly thousands of dollars, we now have three coroners at a salary of only $500.00 each.

These administration reforms are in accordance with the consistent policy of the Republican Party in the county, to give to the people a most efficient government at a minimum of expense and without placing a burden of funded debt upon future generations. Under the leadership of Philip Elting, the Republican Party in the county of Ulster has achieved a recognition for efficiency, honesty, and progress unequalled by any other county administration in the state of New York.

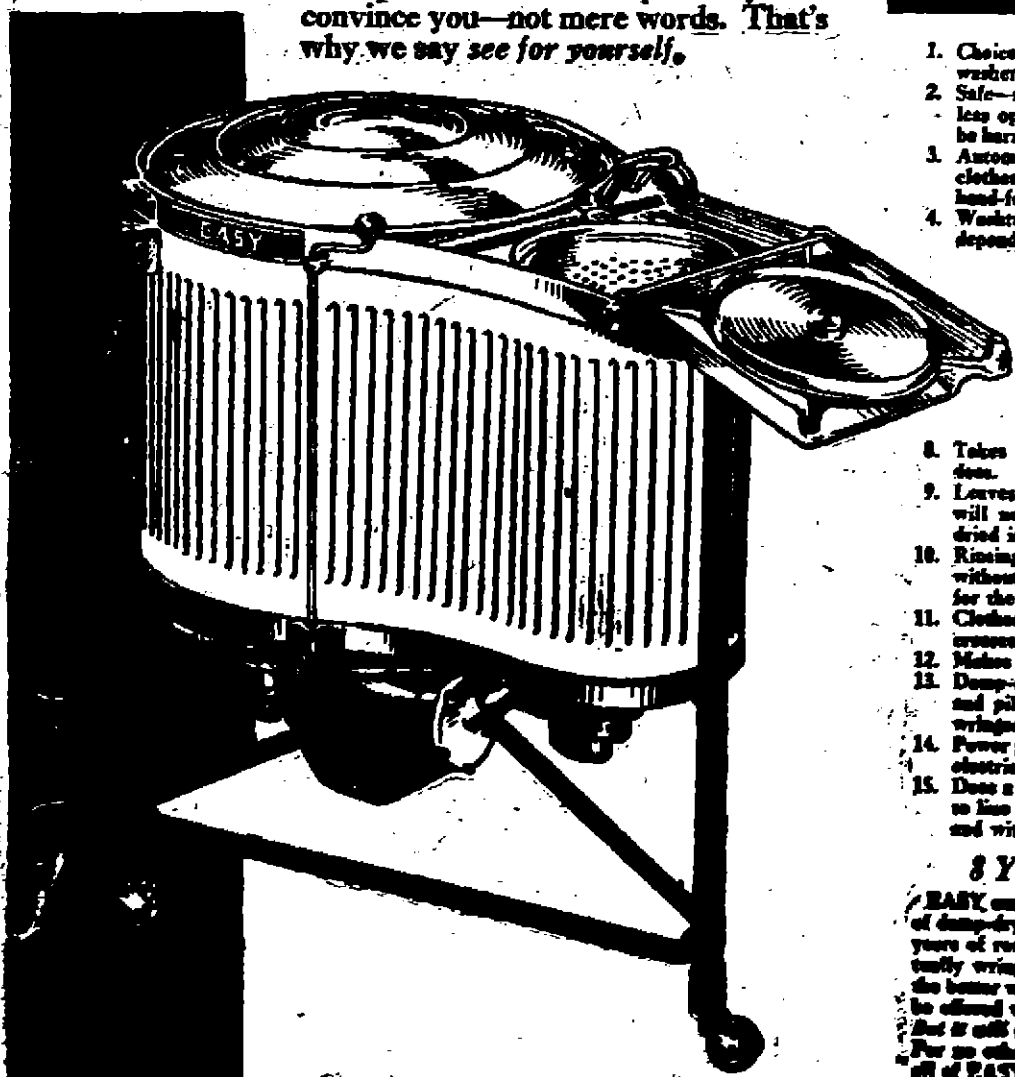

The Republican Party if returned to control of the Board of Supervisors will continue the fiscal policy of "pay as you go," its policy of vision in preparing for future needs, its record of improvement and progress, its honesty of purpose, its policy of government for the benefit of the people alone. It will wipe out the county debt; it will continue to improve the highways of the county; it will care for the indigent, the sick, and the unfortunate. It will apply business and approved financial methods to the management of county affairs. The Republican Board of Supervisors has been faithful to the trust reposed in it. It will continue its record of a sound financial policy commensurate with public needs. The people of the county of Ulster may rely upon the future activities of a Republican Board of Supervisors, secure in the contemplation of a record of achievement for the past quarter of a century.

The Development of Rayon!

Years ago when the first low priced "fibre" came out, we marvelled at the "fibre" or "art silk" which made the luxurious appearance possible.

The W. T. Grant Company was one of the first to sell "fibre" or "art silk" hosiery for women at 25¢. It created a sensation.

New rayon, which is the modern perfection of these early synthetic fibres, is a pleasant surprise. It takes dye in soft, beautiful dyes, and absorbs dampness without injury.

These rayon has made possible the luxury of today's lingerie and hosiery at popular prices. It has been known that Grant Stores have been among the first to take advantage of each new improvement.

Matters Before The Surrogate

The value of the estate of Daniel York, Saugerties, who died June 21, 1929, and whose will executed December 24, 1920, has been admitted to probate in surrogate's court is given as not to exceed $7,500. To the wife is bequeathed life use of estate, the residue at her death to go, one-third each, to two daughters and a son. To Mountain View Cemetery Association is devised $100 for care of cemetery plot. To Daniel York Brink, grandson, and Dorothy G. Brink, granddaughter, $100 is devised to each. Clyde F. Gardner is attorney for petitioner, Arthur D. York, who is named as executor and to whom letters testamentary have been issued.

Long Way to Forty

Bob Ryder holds to the opinion that when a woman says that she's still in her thirties, and tells the truth about it, she'll be forty on her next birthday. But we are inclined to believe that her age will be closer to the forty-five mark. Nobody who can't pull the family Bible on her expects any woman to tell the truth about her age.—New Orleans States.

Presentation of Spiritual Bursar

Delegates of the Hudson Valley Chapter, Knights of Columbus, formally presented a bursar of $5,000 to Father Paul, head of the Franciscan Order at Kingston, on Sunday, October 27.

The interest on this fund is to be used in perpetuating the education of one young man to the priesthood each year, under the patronage of the Franciscan Order, and will be given as the Knights of Columbus Holy Spirit Bursar.

Haines Has Made Excellent Record

Fast Chairman John J. Haines of Poughkeepsie conceived the idea of raising this fund and with the work of the following chairmen, each year—Thomas M. Haines of Newburgh, Joseph M. Haines of Newburgh, Florian P. Winger of Kingston and finally the presentation under the leadership of Henry L. A. Foster of Kingston—the work has been completed.

Delegates, members and friends from Poughkeepsie were represented at this meeting. Following the regular business session, a high tea reception was offered by Father Paul and his assistants. Directly after the services everyone was served with a delicious supper in the large dining hall, on the Mount of the Assumption.

Treatment of the Child

When you wake a child do it in a pleasant way. Do not take him by the ear and pull him out of bed. It is disagreeable for the child and injures the general tone ensemble of the ear. When children go to sleep with tears on their cheeks and are awakened by the voice of dyspeptic parents, they have a pretty good excuse for crime in after years. If I sat on the bench in such cases I would mitigate the sentence.—Bill Nye.

ALDERMAN HAINES.

Alderman Ray A. Haines, the Republican candidate to succeed himself as alderman of the Second ward, has made an exceptional record during the time that he has served the Second ward as its representative and this year the Democratic party did not offer a candidate to oppose him at the polls this November.

Alderman Haines was a member of the building committee that had charge of the rebuilding of the city hall. What the committee accomplished is shown by the completed building which is a credit to the city. During the time that he has been a member of the common council, Alderman Haines has taken an active part in furthering not only the interests of his own ward but the entire city.

Refuses to Give Up

4 Cents to Bandit
Newark, N. J.—Joseph Rehn, truck driver, refused to surrender the 4 cents he had in his pocket when a hold-up man jumped onto the running board of his truck and pressed a glittering knife against his ribs. Instead, Rehn pushed the man off the truck, drove to the nearest store, borrowed another penny and called police from a pay telephone. Detectives arrested a negro, later identified as the unsuccessful bandit.

Afghan King Is Able Statesman

London, Nov. 1 (AP).—Nadir Khan, Afghanistan's new king, is of the same royal family as the former King Amanullah, for both trace their descent to one Farid Feroz Khan, a minister at a minor court, one of whose 21 sons became the first king to rule the country in something like its present form about a hundred years ago.

The new king, who is 45 years old, has spent the greater part of his life in military and political affairs, although he gained no wide reputation outside his own land until a few Europeans came to know him as commander in chief of the Afghan forces, a post which he later exchanged for minister of war.

He was steadily acquiring during this period the remarkable influence over many of the Afghan tribes that has stood him in such good stead during recent months.

In 1924, Nadir took up the post of Afghan minister in Paris, and here he made many friends. Ill-health intervened, and in 1926 he had to leave his post and take up residence as a private citizen on the French Riviera.

It was here that he learned the news that his kinsman Amanullah had died and, a little later, that Bacha Sakao, "the son of the water carrier," had captured Kabul; and it was from here that he set out with his brother and a few friends on the apparently hopeless task of restoring the country to law and order. He insisted from the outset that he had no personal designs on the crown, but the tribesmen who were back from the north proclaimed him king and he accepted the office.

In official circles in England, where there is a very lively interest in Afghan affairs owing to the proximity of northwest India—Nadir Khan is considered an able statesman who is more likely than any other man at present on the scene to bring Afghanistan under one central control.

We would like to say to the kids who took the three air valves from our automobile tires last night as a Halloween prank, that if they were fourth one they may apply anytime. We have a club very, very handy.

"Folks certainly mark well my windows," observed the cheerful merchant while scrubbing off the Halloween inscriptions this morning.

About the only thing women can't do nowadays is to be the father of a family.

QUIT WORRYING ABOUT IT
The hardest work you ever do is worrying about it.
What makes at four resemble two is worrying about it.
The time goes mighty slowly when you sit and sigh, and sigh again. And think of work ahead, and then keep worrying about it.

Just buckle up and buckle in—
Quit worrying about it.
By work, not worry, you will win—
Quit worrying about it.
A task is easy, once begun.
So grab a hold and do it, son—
Quit worrying about it.

It's a good rule for one to think twice before he speaks, three before he writes and then do neither.

A very fat traveling man with a large bag in each hand dashed around the station just as the train pulled out. He ran after it, but the train soon left him far behind. Slowly returning to the station, removing his hat he mopped his brow with his handkerchief.

"Trying to catch the train, mister?" asked an interested bystander.

"Oh, no," replied the disgruntled fat salesman. "I was chasing it out of the yards. It should not be allowed in here; just look at the tracks it leaves."

Man and money talk loudest when tightest.

Doctor: "I will give you a local anesthetic if you think it necessary."
Railroad Man: "Well, Doc, if its going to hurt I reckon you had better cut out the local and run me through on a sleeper."

Since the Golden Rule has worn through to the brass nobody obeys it.

Joe: "I hear Jones fell down on the state pharmacy examination."
Sam: "Yes, he got mixed on the difference between a club and a western sandwich."

A man who was given up by the doctors when he was fifty has just died at the age of ninety-six. Doctors are usually right in the end.

Bill: "Dr. Goofus certainly has worked himself up, hasn't he?"
Sam: "How is that?"
Bill: "He used to be a chiropodist; now he's a dentist."

If more men scratched the soil fewer men would scratch their heads.

Personal Bias.

We realize that in a matter of this sort every man is inclined to look at the question from his own personal standpoint. In the course of his sermon a preacher recently asked the question: "In the midst of trial, what brings us to the greatest comfort?"

"An acquittal," shouted a low-brow, who never should have been admitted by the usher.

Bed bugs are sneaking—they work under cover.

Wife: "I am going to have some shrimp for dinner tonight."
Hubby: "Is that so? Who is he?"

"Old Gold" bellowed the precocious two-year old when his father playfully poked a finger into his mouth.

One thing worse than being bothered is being ignored.

MINES BUREAU ACTS TO CURB DISASTERS

Conducts Research Work to Prevent Blasts.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Possibilities of disaster in coal mines have been minimized by research work of the United States bureau of mines, a survey of the bureau's work here indicates. The Pittsburgh branch is the largest of eleven experimental stations. The activities of the bureau require a personnel of 250 persons, many of whom have made mining their life work.

Activities are divided into two main groups, general tests in the experimental mine at Bruceton, and laboratory and research investigations at the bureau of mines building located on the Carnegie Institute of Technology property.

Not only does the bureau attempt to find solutions for most of the mining accidents, but it also strives to have the knowledge thus won passed on to the operators in order that the greatest benefit may evolve upon those who toll far below the surface of the earth.

Three Calls a Year. An average of three calls to disasters are answered a year. In all, the entire bureau has eleven rescue cars stationed at various points throughout the country. This system enables a car to be in every section in which a coal mine accident might occur.

The reverberating sounds of explosions and the crash of the fall of slate are heard at the experimental station. They are part of the regular investigations in the daily routine work.

The laboratory tests include delving into the dangers of the various gases which are encountered in mines. Efforts are made to determine means to counteract the deadly fumes. The magnitude of these gas experiments is shown by the bureau's report that 300 gas samples are analyzed a month, many being subjected to as many as six separate tests.

Electrical Tests. A large section of the bureau building is used to make electrical tests. According to George St. J. Perrott, superintendent of the bureau, there are five hazards connected with the use of electricity in mines.

These hazards are electrical shock, unintentional ignition of explosives by stray current, ignition of coal dust by electrical arcs, and fires of electrical origin.

Because of the increasing use of electricity in mining, the department in which these experiments are made is considered among the most important at the bureau.

Mining regulations permit the use of 135 different kinds of explosives. Governmental experiments with mining explosives date from 1908 when blasting tests were begun by the technology branch of the geological survey. Since then the tests have been continued by the bureau of mines.

Many of the tests incidental to construction of the Holland vehicular tunnel between New York and Jersey City were conducted at the Bruceton mine. These tests were made wholly to determine the system of ventilation needed to keep the air in the great Hudson river tubes free from impurities.

Tree's Slow Growth. Dwarf willows that struggle to survive in Greenland sometimes grow less than an inch in diameter in the course of 50 years.

Early Start. We worry less over the younger generation, having just learned that one of the largest manufacturers of rouge has been in uninterrupted business for 150 years.—Pittsburgh News.

Scores Senate Independents

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—The Senate's group of independent Republican senators from the west is attempting, in the opinion of Senate leaders, to improve the condition of agriculture by "dragging industry down to a level of common sense."

This assertion, together with a statement that some of the independent senators are more dangerous to American economic security than "all the Communists combined," in their attitude toward the pending tariff bill, was included in an open letter addressed by the Pennsylvania to F. E. Murphy, the publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune.

In addition, Reed suggested that the west send to Washington senators who will regard the agricultural problem "as Americans and not as sectionalists, sectionalists and populists."

Publication of the letter drew an immediate reply from Senator Schall, Republican, Minnesota, a member of the independent group. He asserted that he and his colleagues were endeavoring to lift agriculture to the level of industry, that the special session was called for that purpose and not "as Senator Reed evidently thinks, to further aggrandize industry."

Reed said in his letter, in connection with his comparison of the independent with Communists, that it was not to be taken as an indictment of Schall or of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota, but rather of some of their colleagues and their attitude toward the tariff bill.

Penny Matching Is Not Always Harmless Sport

Niagara Falls, Ont.—W. W. Knapp of Bridgeport, Conn., came to witness the night illumination of Niagara falls and because he came too early and struck up a casual acquaintance with a stranger he is minus $100.

Knapp was waiting for the spectacle to begin when a stranger appeared to his sporting instinct in order to while away the time. The stranger suggested the old and inexpensive pastime of matching pennies. Knapp readily assented but found his acquaintance could win more at matching pennies than some people do in high stake poker sessions.

Gold Strike Fatal to Family of Ducks

Oroville, Calif.—Mrs. E. R. Lewis of Swanee had found a gold nugget worth $10 in the craw of a duck she was cleaning.

Sixteen other ducks waddled contentedly in the Lewis ranch yard at the time of the discovery. A few minutes later they had passed on to another life.

In quick succession duck after duck had felt the edge of the ax. When it was all over Mrs. Lewis had $10 worth of gold and 17 dead ducks.

Vatican Stamp Issue Fast Being Sold Out

Vatican City.—The recent issue of Vatican postage stamps, comprising 15 different values, has had one of the greatest successes with the general and stamp-collecting public of any modern philatelic issue. The total value of the issue was for the sum of 54,000,000 lire and it is estimated that after less than a fortnight some 35,000,000 lire worth have been purchased. It is expected that the entire issue will be sold out by the end of the year, if not earlier.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Dame Fashion had the good luck the other day to sit down and see all the kinds of pajamas in the world before her—or so it seemed. There really were over sixteen hundred in that room, although of course not all worn by beautiful models.

Then there began to seem more truth in that saying that the American pajama is one of the two kinds of garments for women that have gone around the world. At least the American manufacturer has received inspiration for making them from about every country in the world, and has proved his point that the pajama is international.

Once upon a time the word pajama was supposed to belong to nights as much as the word moon. But here in graceful beauty before Dame Fashion's very eyes were bridge pajamas and lounge pajamas which were not at all sleepy looking garments. The studio design-artists for these prefer the term "pyjamas" instead of the more common "pajamas." Said Dame Fashion, "It's a temptation to adopt that, just out of loyalty to Rudyard Kipling, for it seems as though about every other word of his early Indian books was 'pyjamas.'" But that was a trick of memory, for coming home to take down the old forty-year-old copy of "Plain Tales From the Hills" from the shelf, an hour was spent and not a "pyjama" was to be found anywhere.

But however you may spell it, there is romance in any garment that may appear at once in the guise of a Bulgarian, a Chinese, a Japanese, a Russian, a sultan's bride of Turkey, a Rumanian or a little Dutch girl. East and West, back in the fall, college girls poured out lists for college wear, and Dame Fashion never found one such list which did not name pajamas.

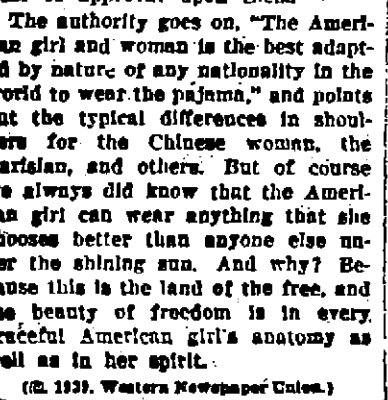

Dame Fashion saw not only trousers and blouses, but also adorable matching coats to be worn with the other two parts, especially for the "bridge" events. The so-called trousers are often baggy and skirl-like, like "Oxford bags" that were once pleasing to the men, or they are shirred in at the ankle closely, for the Turkish style, with a modesty that ought to suit thoroughly those still a little restive about the short skirts.

"Seven times as many now worn in America as five years ago," declared the earnest statistician. And when the beauty of these creations in such combinations as flamingo red, egg-shell white, or the more dainty coral and flesh pink are seen, the latter with rose-petal trimming, it is no wonder college girl and artist both set the seal of approval upon them.

The authority goes on, "The American girl and woman is the best adapted by nature of any nationality in the world to wear the pajama," and points out the typical differences in shoulders for the Chinese woman, the Parisian, and others. But of course we always did know that the American girl can wear anything that she chooses better than anyone else under the shining sun. And why? Because this is the land of the free, and the beauty of freedom is in every graceful American girl's anatomy as well as in her spirit.

outstanding choice of summer brides. Possibly because some purples are heavy in effect, they are chosen in tulle in order that they may be less formidable. A bouffant purple tulle frock is sure to appear both sophisticated and naive, the first because of its tone, the second because of its line. Lovely color schemes may be evolved with the aid of flowers, red on purple being reckoned chic.

The picturesque note is really necessary to the success of bridal finery. This season's models lend themselves to parade purposes. There are the floating capelets and scarfs to say nothing of the irregularities of the hemline, and the widely approved tiered skirts. So many frocks have bow treatments, even to the bow at the back of the raised waistline, that they seem a particularly appropriate choice.

"Mah-jong, mummie!"

HERE'S THE TEST THAT HAS SET the whole town talking

They have seen with their own eyes that Calumet actually acts twice. And they have heard how those two actions protect their baking against failure. Naturally they have been eager to try Calumet themselves.

And that is why there is so much good baking going on right now. Fluffy cakes and perfect biscuits. Ovens that used to be hard to regulate, seem to give no trouble at all with this modern double-acting baking powder.

Calumet's first action takes place in the mixing bowl. It starts the batter rising nicely. The second action—in the oven—sends the cake rising up to the top of the pan, and it holds it there until it is perfectly baked. No wonder all the women are delighted! Calumet's Double-Action has made it the most popular baking powder in the world. It far outsells every other brand.

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Get a can of Calumet today. Use only one level teaspoon of Calumet to a cup of flour. This is the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results—a real economy, too.

feature, is cleverly expressed in the model. The waist shows above the peplum and closes at a skirt in front at the neck, which shows new round outlines, trimmed with band facing. The skirt is cut in a graceful A-line, mounted on an underbody. The peplum is made of a fabric at the hips. The sleeve is a plain fitted model. Main taffeta, and printed crepe are admirably suited to this style. The motif is also suggested, with fabric in contrast.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. To make a 38 inch size you require 4 1/2 yards of 23 inch material. For facings and belt of contrasting material 3/4 yard is required. The underbody requires 1 1/2 yard of 32 inch material. The width of the skirt at the lower edge with fulness extended is 3 yards.

SHREDDED WHEAT

With all the bran of the whole wheat

The crisp, crunchy shreds of whole wheat have a delicious flavor when heated in the oven and covered with hot milk. Here are vitamins and mineral salts and everything the body needs for perfect nourishment. Delicious for any meal.

Just a glass... a little water... and two teaspoons of Calumet Baking Powder. But it has shown hundreds of women how they can feel so sure of success in all their baking.

MAKE THIS TEST

See for yourself how baking powder acts—and how Calumet acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

Bandit Trial In Supreme Court

interrupted during his story, which was given in every detail.

Dr. Rudinsky Again Called.

Dr. Rudinsky was called for the second time during the day. He was the defendant's last witness. At the morning session he had been called but was not able to positively identify the defendant Calabresi and testimony given was sufficient from the records by the court. Again in the afternoon he said he thought the man on trial was the man he had treated at the Monticello jail but he was not positive. To his best recollection it was the man he had advised to take a hot bath for injuries to his body and he also had given medicine to the man. The defendant had testified previously to such affairs. The doctor asked defendant how he had received the injuries and the boy said, "They worked on me."

Mr. Calabresi, father of defendant was recalled to the stand in the afternoon and asked what time the union barber shops closed in New York. He said his shop was union and the closing time Saturdays was 10 o'clock. "But they don't mean it," Isaac Silverman was his first witness called in rebuttal. He was called for the purpose of rebutting a statement made by defendant that he had never had opportunity to secure a lawyer until Mr. Baker came into the case. Mr. Silverman, an attorney and at the time of the crime a justice of the peace, said he practiced at Monticello, he had visited Moses and Calabresi in the jail there and following the meeting had appeared as counsel for Calabresi. He denied that the statement of Calabresi saying Mr. Baker was his first attorney was true.

Cross examined Silverman said when Calabresi was first arrested he noticed that defendant limped and appeared to be in pain.

During his direct examination Calabresi stated that he had never used the name of Frank Seino in his life before the time he was arrested for the Loch Sheldrake job. He stated he never knew anyone by that name and just used the name in order that his parents would not know he had been arrested. He said he had never been in a police lineup prior to that date.

Detective Barney Rudinsky, who arrested Calabresi in New York, was called as the second witness in rebuttal. The detective stated that he had first seen Calabresi in police headquarters in New York city when Calabresi was in the police lineup on November 8, 1927. The police records show that at that time the man identified now as Calabresi had been arrested on a charge of burglary by Detective Burns and at that time had given the name of Frank Seino. Rudinsky said the defendant was the same man he had seen in the lineup then.

Sam Block, one of the brothers who conducted the renting station at which the Packard car was hired, was called but failed to appear. He had been summoned at his place of business on East Broadway by Deputy Sheriff Thorpe but failed to answer the subpoena. The deputy was sworn to testify to that fact.

Testimony was closed and due to the late hour making motions was delayed until morning and in order that the case might be concluded early in the day an adjournment was taken to 9:30 o'clock for summation, charge and submission to the jury.

There will be no further trials and all jurors have been discharged for the term.

She Picked on Him

The wheels of the divorce mill were grinding out a heavy grist in court when a young man presented his plea for a divorce on the grounds that his wife had been unnecessarily cruel to him.

Asked to describe the specific cruelty by the justice presiding, the libellant, in somewhat of an effeminate voice, declared spiritedly: "She hit me, she beat me, she hurried minutes at me," and so on.

The evidence concluded, the judge leaned over to his clerk and in an aside which was audible to quite a few others in the courtroom, inquired: "Is there any request in this libel for the libellant to resume his maiden name?"—Brooklyn Enterprise.

His Eyes Cried for Daddy

A little three-year-old boy, very much a daddy boy, was left at home when the father went out of town for a few days. Sunday came and the mother took the small boy to church with her, providing the usual amusements—paper, pencils and pictures. Everything went well until the brief pause that just precedes the sermon. Then a small hand pulled the mother's arm to attract attention and a grave little face, with twinkling eyes and burning eyes, was raised to hers as a baby voice piped: "Mother, I'm afraid these eyes are going to cry for daddy." And they did.—Indianapolis News.

Surveyor's Work

A geodetic survey is one which covers large areas and takes into account the fact that the earth has a curved surface. It is usually called a control survey, because it furnishes geographic positions and other data for more detailed local surveys. In ordinary surveying, the earth's curvature is ignored, and points of equal elevation above sea level are treated as being plane. This is satisfactory for a local survey, but when several independent local surveys are brought together their lines are quite apt not to fit unless each survey has been made under a geodetic control survey.

Old English Law Made

Churchgoing Compulsory

Golfers, picnickers, Sunday autoists would be out of luck if an old English law were in force today. The act of uniformity, 1532, required:

"All persons, except those dissenting from the worship or doctrines of the Church of England and usually attending some place of worship not belonging to the Church of England, are, if they have no lawful or reasonable excuse for absence, to endeavor to attend their parish church or accustomed chapel, or, if reasonably prevented from so doing, some other place where the divine service of the Church of England is performed, on all Sundays and other days ordained and used to be kept as holy days, and to abide there orderly and soberly during the time of common prayer, preaching or other divine service there performed."

Showing General Knox

in Diplomatic Light

One thing about the World War: little or nothing has been said about the soldiers going hungry. In this department, at least, the old hardships seemed to have been successfully eliminated. In contrast, one recalls Washington at Valley Forge. The plight of the Continental army became so desperate that Washington finally sent General Knox and Captain Sargent to explain their condition to congress.

It will be remembered that General Knox was very generously proportioned and it happened that Captain Sargent was far from wearing fat. One member of congress noted this and remarked that in spite of the tale of starvation and rags he had seldom noted a gentleman so fat and one so well dressed.

"It is true," said General Knox, "for out of respect, the choices was made of the only man who had an extra ounce of flesh and the only one who had a whole suit of clothes."

Market For Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets).—The wholesale market on western New York celery was steady today. Receipts were moderate and the demand was fairly good, particularly on fancy. Finest offerings in the rough, packed in two thirds crates, jobbed out at $2.25-$2.50, occasionally at $2.75. Fair quality brought $2.50-$3.

During the preceding week this state started 325 carloads of celery to consuming centers.
Western New York Big Boston lettuce was again unattractive in quality and consequently met only a poor demand at from 50-65 cents per crate of 24 heads. New Jersey consignments of the same number of heads realized $1-$2.25.
The active demand combined with light arrivals resulted in a strong market for fancy green peas. The top price obtained for California shipments was $7.50 for 32-quart hampers, and for Virginia $5.50.
The carlot shipment of green peas for the whole country last week filled only 23 cars.

Kleffer peas were more plentiful. The demand was moderate and the market ruled about steady. Western New York offerings wholesaled at $1.50-$2 per bushel basket. Hudson valley peas peddled out at $2-$2.75, occasionally as high as $3.
The demand for Concord grapes was less active and values averaged a trifle lower. Most of the sales on 12-quart baskets were at 65 to 70 cents.

Fancy string beans were in brisk demand but poor received scant attention. South Carolina was the chief source of supply. Bushel baskets of fine wax beans changed hands as high as $5. Green refugees and bountiful reached $3.50.

A firmer tone prevailed on ripe California tomatoes of extra fine quality. While receipts were more liberal, the demand was fairly good. Most of the wholesale trading on 30-pound lugs was reported at $2-$2.25. Tomatoes have begun to arrive from the Canary Islands.

Drawing a Line
As a matter of practice we know that a line can be drawn, as we make use of drawn lines all through our lifetime. As a matter of mathematical theory a line has length, but no breadth or thickness, and from that point of view it is impossible to draw a line without giving it some breadth or thickness.

Senator Ranadell, Start Drive Democrat, Makes Appeal for Tariff

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—An appeal to senate Democrats to "put aside political differences" and save the pending tariff bill was made in a statement issued today by Senator Ranadell, a Louisiana Democrat.

Addressing his announcement to his Democratic colleagues, he urged that they heed the words of Alfred E. Smith, the party standard bearer in the last campaign, that:

"I am opposed to politics in tariff making."

"Appeal to Democratic senators," the Louisiana said, "to view the situation with the same breadth of vision which characterized our early founders."

There should be no sectional animosity, no party prejudice, no north and south, east or west. Democrats and Republicans alike, need this great American protective policy, the first child of the first congress, the best assistant in the building of the earth's mightiest republic."

Quoting from the tariff plank in the Houston platform Ranadell said it called for adequate protection for American agriculture and industry alike.

"It was a happy day," he added, "for those of us who had been fighting the battle of protection with the ranks of the party almost single handedly to know that once more our party has returned to the mooring of its first forty years, after nearly a century of adherence to the policy of free trade and tariff for revenue only."

Would Condemn Bingham's Action

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—A resolution asking condemnation of Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, but at the request of Senator Fess of Ohio, the Republican whip, its consideration was deferred.

"That the action of the Senator from Connecticut, Mr. Bingham, in placing Mr. Charles L. Egan upon the official rolls of the Senate at the time and in the manner set forth in the report of the subcommittee on the Judiciary is contrary to good morals and Senatorial ethics and tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute, and such conduct is hereby condemned."

Senator Norris called attention that the resolution was privileged but said he was glad to lay it aside temporarily if any one requested.

When Fess asked that it be put aside, the Nebraska quickly consented.

The annual drive for Farm Bureau members was formally opened today, November 1 starts the fiscal year of the Bureau. Although the renewal letter was mailed only yesterday, memberships were received this morning. The directors are making every effort and earnestly request that all members renew by mail this year.

The solicitation of members throughout the county is expensive. Every membership received by mail saves considerable time for the committee men and also saves money for the Farm Bureau. It leaves more for the extension work which is being carried on.

Last year over 500 memberships were received by mail. This is an accurate measure of the confidence and faith members have in their Farm Bureau. Many business men of Kingston send annual dues voluntarily to support this big organization, working for the good of the rural population. Any benefits the rural people may reap directly reflect on the prosperity of the city.

Postpone Inquest In VanLoon Death

Inquest into the death of William VanLoon, who died while being taken to the Kingston Hospital, after he had been found on the roadside with a fractured skull, which was to have been continued today, has been postponed because some of the witnesses were not able to be present.

Mr. VanLoon was found October 5, on the Pine Hill road in an unconscious condition, and died before he could be treated. It was at first thought that he was the victim of a hit and run driver, but later evidence was presented showing that he might have met with foul play. No date has been set for the remainder of the inquest.

World Owes Great Debt to Benedictine Monks

Some of the most wonderful books on earth are in the monastery founded by St. Benedict at Rome 1400 years ago. During the dark Middle Ages when barbarians were sacking libraries the Benedictine monks of Montecassino patiently copied (immortal) works and thus preserved for today priceless books that would otherwise have been lost forever. Among them are "The Golden Age" and the "Metamorphoses" of Apuleius; the history and Annals of Tacitus; Cicero's oration "Pro Cluentio"; and his essays, "Republic" and "About the Laws." "The Nature of the Gods" and Ovid's "Fasti." The oldest grammar in history was also preserved intact by the Benedictines. This was Varro's "Latin Language." Some editions kept unharmed the only original copy. Upon this all grammars down to the English grammar taught in schools, have in part been based. The work of the Benedictine monks in preserving priceless books of the church has been even more remarkable. Original works of St. Jerome, St. Augustine, St. Cyprian and St. Ambrose; the most ancient papal decrees; that of John VIII; the oldest text of a decree by Gratian, famous codifier of laws, have all been saved from the depredations of time by the Benedictine brethren.

Early Substitutes for the Modern Toothbrush

Toothbrushes are quite a modern invention. In the Vernal Memoirs we are told that in 1643, Sir Ralph Verney was asked by a friend to inquire in Paris "for the little brushes for making clean of the teeth, most covered with silver, and some few with gold and silver twisted together with some Pettit Boettles (1 Bottle) to put them in." There is another reference to these. In a later volume of the Memoirs, as "teeth brushes." "Turkish toothbrush" occurs in a list of "utensils" in the Museum Tradescantianum in 1656. This was probably a stick of dragon root, which, in common with other roots, was used for that purpose down to the Seventeenth century or even later. Not only the Romans, 2,000 years ago, but also our own Queen Elizabeth, used a rough cloth, wrapped round a stick or a finger for her teeth.—Weekly Scotsman.

Bridge Had Long Life
Old London bridge, begun in 1170, was completed in 1200. It carried a row of timber houses, which were frequently burned down, but the main structure existed until the beginning of the Nineteenth century. The old bridge was the center for bookbinders and other tradesmen. On it stood the chapel of St. Thomas of Chatterbury and a tower on which the heads of traitors were exposed to view. The present London bridge was begun in 1824 and completed in 1831. It is borne on five granite arches, is 225 feet long, 65 feet wide and 50 feet above the river.

Afraid to Fish
Along the bankwaters of the Orinoco river in Venezuela, a race known to white people, dwell a race of Indians whose religious beliefs make them fear to fish or eat the fish of any stream. Believing that the souls of men enter beams after death they are careful not to harm any river creature superior in the metaphysical scale to bats, worms and ants. These they eat freely. These strange Indians were discovered by Dr. Herbert Dickey of New York while trying to find the source of the Orinoco.—Chicago.

RABBIT DISHES

AS CHICKEN and rabbit are so alike in flavor and food value, it may be cooked and served in the same manner. Rabbits feed on vegetables and nuts as well as grains and are really more particular about their diet than the fowl.

Two medium-sized rabbits will serve eight persons. Split down the front to the tail, after removing the head and feet. Divide into six or eight sections.

Stewed Rabbit.
Cover the rabbits with boiling water to which a tablespoonful of vinegar has been added, cook five minutes, add onion, one tablespoonful of salt, a clove of garlic and simmer two hours. Stock should always be saved when cooking young rabbits, for the broth may be used as chicken broth.

Rabbit Pie.
Take two stewed rabbits, five table-spoonfuls of flour, one finely chopped onion, two table-spoonfuls of salt, three table-spoonfuls of fat, two and one-half cupfuls of stock, one-half cupful of chopped parsley, and one and one-half cupfuls of mashed potato and pepper to season. Remove the meat from the bones and place in a well-greased baking dish. Melt the fat, add flour and seasonings and when thoroughly mixed add stock, onion and parsley. Stir until it boils; boil five minutes, then pour over rabbit. Spread with mashed potato and bake thirty-five minutes. Brown well at the last.

Tomato Sauce.
Take two cupfuls of tomatoes, one bay leaf, two table-spoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, five table-spoonfuls of flour, one and one-half table-spoonfuls of salt, three table-spoonfuls of fat and one-half table-spoonful of stock. Cook tomatoes and seasoning ten minutes and strain through a sieve or colander, add the fat and flour cooked together, and cook five minutes.

Through a Woman's Eyes

By Jean Norton

ARE MEN "UNMANLY"?

THE reason why women hate men is that they are so unmanly!

That startling opinion is given in a recent magazine article by Ada Patterson, who claims that more women than men possess the qualities which we call "manly."

"A woman," we are told, "cannot love the average man if she knows him. To be what women consider 'manly,' he must be brave and strong and loyal and kind, and in all things adequate, which to every woman's sorrow, he most certainly is not." And for proof Miss Patterson points to the "unmanly" weakness of which most men are guilty—vanity, selfishness, love of flattery, illogicalness.

All of which accusations against men are true, of course—and yet we do not agree with Ada Patterson, surely we don't—that women hate and despise them. Whatever bating there is, I think, must be on the part of the half-baked woman, the young and inexperienced girl to whom "manliness" connotes nothing less than godliness, and whose dream of her sweetheart or husband as a young god has been rudely interrupted by the emergence of a human man. A mature woman like Ada Patterson should know better.

No women don't hate men. And if men are "unmanly," the trouble is with the definition. How many of us, for instance, would be "womanly" if womanliness meant perfection and godliness?

The point about most men which proves such a disappointment to women with a preconceived notion of manliness, is that in some ways they never grow up.

It is true that a "man's vanity is as necessary to him as oxygen." Just like the child who is terribly agitated about being the biggest, strongest, best.

It is true that men are far more susceptible to flattery than women. While only the most foolish women fall for it, it is the rare man who is above it. But all children love it.

It is true that men are selfish, colorfully, unconsciously selfish. It has been said that the least selfish man puts the most selfish woman in the shade when it comes to selfishness! And I shouldn't be surprised! But there you have the child—colorfully, unconsciously selfish. Ditto illogicalness.

Do we hate children for these qualities? Heavens, no! We would not be so selfish. Nor do we hate men. The more womanly we are the more these very qualities which disassociate a man from a god appeal to our material instinct!

"Adequate in all things," men most certainly are not. But that doesn't necessarily make them unmanly. If by manliness we mean being "brave and strong and loyal and kind," manly men there most certainly are in this world, and their name is legion!

Men who regard every woman as a goddess are loved to be disappointed. We cannot be goddesses, but we can be women and womanly. If we do not flatter and wrong men by expecting them to be gods, we shall be the better able to appreciate the manliness in them.

Successor to Mrs. Willebrandt

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—G. A. Youngquist, attorney general of Minnesota, has been selected by President Hoover to succeed Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Youngquist, who was born in Sweden and whose home is in Crookston, Minnesota, is now in Washington and will take office in the near future. His nomination is expected to be transmitted to the Senate this week.

The Minnesota has served several terms as attorney general of his state and before that was assistant attorney general. He has appeared before the Supreme Court of the United States as a representative of Minnesota on a number of occasions and lawyers here say he has a splendid standing before that court.

Friends of the administration describe Mr. Youngquist as a firm believer in the dry cause. They also say that his record as enforcement officer of Minnesota is excellent.

Besides enforcement of the Volstead act, Mr. Youngquist will have charge of enforcement of the internal revenue laws and the narcotic laws. He would have a much enlarged responsibility if and when the prohibition enforcement unit is transferred from the treasury to the justice department.

It was the first trip since the President had Prime Minister MacDonald there as his guest.

"THE ONLY WAY TO OBTAIN PROTECTION."

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—J. A. Arnold, vice president and general manager of the Southern Tariff Association, testified before the Senate Tariff Committee today that the organization had suggested that "one be sent to Congress to vote for a Protective Tariff."

Under questioning, Arnold said this was the only way to obtain protection.

"Do you help or try to elect Congressmen in any districts?" asked Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana.

"I can't say that we have," the witness answered.

Walsh produced a letter written to Brown White of San Benito, Texas, by Arnold, October 9, which referred to "Whispering Friends."

"Who was referred to?" Walsh inquired.

"I suppose it referred to Congressman Garner of Texas," Arnold said.

Garner is House Democratic leader.

Another letter read by Walsh written by White to Arnold referred to "Our friend, whispering Johnny" which Arnold said also referred to Garner.

PAPERS RESTRAINED FROM PRINTING TESTIMONY

Lubbock, Texas, Nov. 1 (AP).—All papers in Lubbock county were restrained from printing any testimony in the habeas corpus hearing today of Clay Lester, indicted for wife murder, in an order signed in district court by Judge Clark M. Mulligan.

The move is understood to be an attempt to prevent a change of venue when Lester comes to trial, probably Monday.

Judge Mulligan tonight said outside papers would be barred from Lubbock county if they carried any of the testimony, although he had no say of prohibiting them from publishing elsewhere.

The order was issued following refusal of Lubbock papers to repress the testimony.

Advanced Talker

Edmund Remondini was the first applicant to receive the widespread demand of industrial designers or at least to be sufficiently impressed by them to write a book upon them. He was born in northern Italy in 1881.

An autumn ensemble of black broadcloth and Persian lamb combined formal wear. Sports costume of tweed diagonal in wood brown and beige; collar of lynx, satin blouse and coat lining of beige satin. Ensemble of Lyons velvet for afternoon. Coat trimmed with beaver; blouse of blue crepe embroidered in beads and floes.

Ensembles Liked for Autumn Wear

Silhouette with Lengthened Skirt, Higher Waistline; Furs Prominent

When Jean Patou returned to Paris from a visit to this country several years ago, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, he proclaimed the ensemble as the ideal costume and the preference of American women, and this season's models are presenting in complete form the latest points in style. There is a new silhouette, with the lengthened skirts, higher waistline, in gowns; coats of various lengths, capes and the renaissance of old-style furs, lavishly used. There are new and intriguing details of collar—the monk's collar reversed and the deep-pointed gilet—also wide picturesque cuffs, all in new fabrics of exceptional beauty and a large array of colors. This up-to-the-minute ensemble includes all the accessories—hat, blouse, linings, gloves, footwear, even jewelry, in a picture of the chic outfit for all occasions.

A sports suit is worn in the morning. This is made of wool or silk materials that are shown in a great variety of weave, light or heavy. The all-inclusive tweeds are in greatest demand, forming the basis of many different styles of the suit, tailored and semi-tailored, and introducing fashion possibilities in combination with other materials. The tendency is toward the thinner, softer stuffs for fall, the lighter weight woolsens, the crepes and the dull-finish silks in which some of the best known designers are making ensembles for town and country. Among the novelties of this type is baumala, a rich fabric with deep pile and silky luster. It is sometimes printed in tweed patterns of quiet tones in the weight and quality of heavy crepe, ideal for autumn gowns in ensemble.

Heavier Woolsens Are Used

In suit ensembles for general wear the heavier woolsens, the tweeds, the coverts and kashas in the different weaves from Hogley and from our domestic mills are used combined sometimes with wool goods of another sort. In a model of American design coat and skirt are made of brown and beige tweed mixture, the blouse of finely woven beige wool jersey, which is used also to line the coat. A distinctive novelty from a French house is shown in one of the reversible woolsens which are in favor this season. The bodice and box-plaited skirt, which are joined with stitching, are made of gray and black mixture and the seven-eighths coat of plaid gray cloth is lined with the mixed material.

Some of the latest styles are shown in the details of this ensemble, the coat sleeves that flare to a sharp point below the elbow and narrow at the wrist are fastened with a large button of black lacquer, and a band of the fur is sewed across the outer edge of the cloth and folded toward the front to form the collar. The blouse is finished at the neck with a stitched band and a unique bow of black cre ribbon and white mousseline, and a narrow belt of black lacquered leather is worn at the normal waistline. Pockets, which are so much in demand in suits of the sports type, are concealed in the model under the top of two wide box plaits in front.

Some of the new ensembles made of mixtures and plain colors and others of plain materials of two weaves and colors are original and entertaining. One rather oute model is built on long, straight, masculine lines with the new scheme of wearing a belt tight about the waist and over the jacket. The material is turtur in a black and white mixture. The skirt is cut unusually long, with fullness to the knees, where it is joined in deep points to a flounce of unpressed plaits. The blouse of white wool jersey is finished at the neck with a plaited gilet of Jersey, and the collarless jersey fits tightly over the hips and flares sharply from the front on the lines of a man's cutaway coat.

An English interpretation of this type of ensemble is a jacket suit of navy blue wool jersey dotted with red, white and brown yarn. The skirt is laid in plaits that are stitched half way to the hem, where they flare in bias form, and a short coat of plain blue cloth is lined with the jersey. A tuck-in blouse of white jersey has a tailored tie of blue and a blue belt stitched with white.

Black for Daytime Dress. Black is the sensation of the hour in daytime dress, and marks the contrast between the sports suit and a more formal tailored costume. An ensemble which is considered the very epitome of style is made of black broadcloth and trimmed with Persian lamb. The models vary but the jacket suit consisting of skirt, coat and overblouse or tuck-in shirt and the one-piece dress with a coat of the same cloth are equally modish. Worth makes a three-piece of black broadcloth, the skirt with inverted box-plaits, the coat short and heavily trimmed with Persian lamb which forms the collar, cuffs, and a wide band down each side of the front and around the bottom, shaped to curve upward in front. The bodice of this suit is of black marquisette beautifully embroidered in black floss and silver thread is worn over this skirt.

Next to all-black are some ensembles in black and white, and black with color. Phillips et Gaston who have been creators of costumes in dramatic contrasts of black and white, have brought out a stunning ensemble in black broadcloth. The skirt is box-plaited, the plaits attached to a flat hip rope being inverted and stitched almost to the knees, where they are released to ripple several inches below. The jacket, bolero in shape and loose fitting, is heavily embroidered, all in black, and just crosses the waistline that is swathed with a girdle of black satin. The blouse-bodice of white chiffon is elaborated with black, white and metal embroidery and the coat is a straight, three-quarter model with straight sleeves, wide at the hand, and a high collar and band cuffs of black fox.

In a few distinguished models a sort of the material is arranged to take the place of fur as in an ensemble from Suzanne Talbot, who makes a gown of pastel blue crepe marocain having the blouse gathered around the neck and on the skirt. A deep apron of velvet is at the front and at the back two founces in deeper shades, the lower founce dropping several inches below the hem of the dress. A coat of the velvet has a full-gathered skirt, loose sleeves and a scarf that is wound around the throat and tied loosely in a bow.

Charming Blouses for Autumn. Blouses were never more lovely nor more chic and dainty than they are in the autumn collections. Both the overblouse, which belongs to the skirt that is fitted over the hips, and the tuck-in shirt worn with tailored suits are in fashion, and there are many new models of each. Crepe of different kinds is the material that is used for most of the softer gowns, in which there are new designs, more finished and more formal than those of last year. There are few straight-around sacque overblouses except for utility. The latest models are very long and are gathered or slightly draped around the hips in different ways that make for softness and grace in outline. The long gilet is introduced in a charming blouse of Persian blue crepe de chine which is scalloped and bound around the edges with the crepe.

Distinctive Watermarks

Watermarks in paper have been used for a long time to lead distinction to the product of a particular paper maker and for other purposes. One of the oldest, a circle surrounded by a tall crown, is found in documents dating back to the fourteenth century. Other old marks are the "bear-dog," the coat of arms, the hunter's horn, the hand pointing to a five-pointed star and the landmark, well known in papers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

That's What Counts

The tributes paid on the occasion of his birth centenary to the work of Gen. William Smith by leaders of many denominations recalled a story the general himself was rather fond of telling. A high church dignitary was asked one day what he thought of the Salvation Army. "Well, I tell the truth," said he, "I do not like it, but to be perfectly candid, I believe God Almighty does."—Border Cities Star.

Peggy's Choice

Peggy was descended from a long line of Methodists. One day she and her father and mother were going through a new Baptist church. When Peggy found the lovely modern baptistry she ran for her mother.

"Come quick, mother," she said, "they have a lake in this church."

Mother and father went to admire the beautiful marble baptistry.

"Let's come to this church," said Peggy, "then I could learn to swim."

Belgie Races

The inhabitants of Belgium belong to two different races, known as the Flemings and the Walloons, speaking two different languages. The Flemings of the North are of Teutonic origin and speak Flemish, which is similar to Dutch. The Walloons of the South are largely of Celtic origin and speak a dialect of French. The name of the country is derived from that of the Celtic group, the Belgae, whom Julius Caesar mentioned in his book on the Gallic war.

Stockish Long Food

In northern Africa, shell beans have been found dating back 25,000 years; in Denmark, 10,000 years, and in Great Britain, over 5,000 years. All the way up the Atlantic coast from Florida, traces of shell beans have been found in great numbers, and these engaged in research work have ascertained that these beans exist along the coast to Greenland, and in Iceland, as well as British and the north of France. The Chinese coast is also rich in these beans.

Money Highly Rated

Money is held in very high opinion by most of us. In fact, we usually think more of it than we do ourselves. We count it the greater asset. When we need it out to work for us we expect it to earn more than we do.—G. H.

Says Agriculture Is Stronger

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—The department of agriculture announced today its November reports showed agriculture to be in a stronger position this year than a year ago, largely on account of lower production and higher prices. Since early summer, the department said, prices of practically all groups of farm commodities with the exception of meat animals, had increased. The total output of principal food and feed crops this year, it continued, would be somewhat below that of last year although the acreage harvested would be about the same.

K.H.S. Ready To Meet Peekskill Saturday

K H S 2 COL HD. J S S a onhof. Coach Khas called off practice Thursday night because of the unfavorable weather and to give the members of the High School varsity a rest after the tough workout he put them through Wednesday afternoon. The boys are all in fine shape and are ready to meet Peekskill Saturday afternoon at that place. The undefeated Maroon and White eleven are in hopes of keeping their slate clean from defeat and at the same time hold their opponents scoreless.

Kingston's defense this season is powerful and steady. The work of the line has swept aside the strongest onrush of their opponents. Behind this line of strength is gathered a never failing secondary defense that tackles hard and is always alert. K. H. S. for the past few years has had seven men on the line of scrimmage that were dependable, but there was a weakness in the backfield. Nothing like this can be said of Coach Khas' aggregation for the superior ball carrying or the accuracy so far has ruled the high school gridiron.

In Spring Valley, Kingston met a comparatively weak team, which they smashed and scattered all over the turf and the big Orange eleven was a victim of a 51 to 0 score. It was a good game to whip the local team into shape for their tough schedule and victories have been repeated in the real tests. Albany Academy afforded keen competition for the Maroon squad but even they could not match charges with the locals. They returned to the Capital City with the sum of nothing, while the Kingston boys added 12 points to their credit.

It was in the two DUSO League games that Kingston proved a tower of strength. Middletown, the first on the list of league battles, was dangerous throughout the game. Kingston got the jump on the Middies in the early part of the contest when they scored a touchdown. Nevertheless, the Blue and White team fought desperately until the end. Twice Kingston had their heels on their own goal line but the Middies were turned back and held from crossing that final white strip by attempts both through the line and air. The Middies had a strong line and a well trained backfield. Kingston took this game 6-0.

Port Jervis was strong in all departments last week when Kingston clashed with them for the second DUSO League game. Both teams fought on even terms throughout the first half. Duffy and Castorino were the stars for the Tri-State eleven while Lang and Parks did the outstanding work for Kingston, carrying the ball off tackle and around the flanks for gain after gain. With Watts punting and Minasian passing the Maroon machine was complete. It was one of these bullet like passes that Minasian tossed to Gaddis that resulted in a touchdown in the last quarter of the game. Surviving this battle Kingston should go through the season undefeated for Port was exceedingly strong on defense and offense.

Olympic Winner At "Y" Banquet

Ray Barburt, versatile all round athlete and the only member of the American Olympic team to win a race in the 1928 Olympic games, will be the principal speaker at the annual community father and son banquet to be held in the Y. M. C. A. November 15. The program committee considers itself very fortunate in securing Mr. Barburt, as he is not only an outstanding athlete but a good speaker as well. Moreover, he typifies that clean-cut type of young manhood that it is always a pleasure to present to boys.

Mr. Barburt is a graduate of Syracuse University, where he won a name for himself on the varsity football and track teams. His track ability earned him a place on the American Olympic team in 1928 and his victory in the 400 meter dash was the only track event the American team won in Holland.

Mr. Barburt is now engaged in business in New York City. However, his achievement in athletics and his ability as a speaker has made him much in demand for just such occasions as that which brings him here November 15.

Tickets for the banquet will soon be on sale and may be procured from committee members in the various churches in the city or at the Y. M. C. A.

Atlantic Grid Teams in Final Tuning-up Today

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—With many strange eleven from far and near already upon the scene in the east, Atlantic seaboard teams faced a final tuning-up today in preparation for tomorrow's warfare. Chicago's invasion of Princeton after eight years and Ohio State's visit to Pittsburgh held most of the international interest while the Yale-Dartmouth clash at New Haven dominated the strictly eastern card.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of the midway, coaching his thirty-eight Chicago eleven, is in Princeton with a somewhat subnormal maroon-clad squad, facing a Tiger which gives promise of closing his season with a rush.

Injuries to star Florida players have established Harvard as something of a favorite in the southern invasion at Cambridge. However, the Crimson itself will be weakened by missing players.

Pittsburgh's great eleven remains a favorite to win from an Ohio State squad which has yet to distinguish itself except in a defensive way.

Intersectional frays of lesser note will find the Army trained against South Dakota, Boston College against Duke, Villanova against Georgetown, and Colgate against Maryland-Stetson. The eastern eleven are strong favorites to sweep these four engagements.

While Al Marsters and Albie Booth are contending for Dartmouth and Yale before 75,000 enthusiasts at the Yale Bowl, an ambitious Navy eleven will be endeavoring to make it three straight over Pennsylvania at Franklin Field.

Other leading games on the eastern card are close, with little or no chance between the various pairs of rivals. Syracuse is favored to shade Penn State, and Brown and Holy Cross seem to be equal all along the line.

Roamers Practice.
The Roamers held another practice Thursday night at the B. W. S. hall at High Falls, in preparation for their opening game on November 12. Every man on the Roamer team was out for practice and the players are now rounding in form for the coming season. It is very important that every member of the Roamer team be at 53 Franklin street at 6:30 Monday evening. Manager Gentile has secured a bus to run between High Falls and Kingston every Wednesday evening during the basketball season.

Human Felicity.
Human felicity is produced not so much by great places of good fortune that seldom happen, as by little advantages that occur every day. Thus, if you touch a young man to shave himself, and keep his razor in order, you contribute more to the happiness of his life than in giving him a thousand guineas.—Franklin.

Over 100,000 Tickets Sold.
Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—A new football attendance record appears certain when Notre Dame tackles the University of Southern California on Soldier Field, Chicago, November 16. More than 100,000 tickets have been sold and the remaining 15,000 were expected to go fast.

Captain "Red" Cagle of the Army football team will lead his West Point cadets against South Dakota Saturday afternoon when the midwestern gridiron invades the military grounds on the Hudson.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould.

Football coaches like to rest at the "one-man team" idea on the theory that it is headless stuff, ignoring the fundamental facts of team work.

"Eleven men have a job to do on every play," says Bill Raper. "The football ball-carrier cannot get away from it if he does not have blocking and interference."

Nevertheless the evidence is at hand, plenty of it, to illustrate the remarkable influence of one youth upon a whole team—for instance, 14-year-old Albie Booth of Yale, who has stepped into the key spot of the line as a sophomore just as though it had been made for him. Perhaps it was for Albie grew up and learned his football within the shadow of the Yale Bowl.

Not even Red Grange, who made the All-America team as a sophomore, stepped off to any kinder start than Booth, who has proved himself the all-around carrier of his weight and inches in the East. If not in the whole country, Yale looks like a different team the moment half-legged Albie trots out on the field. Booth has the same electric effect upon the Blue charge that Grange had upon Illinois, Wilson or Cagle upon the Army, Clark on Colorado College, Marsters on Dartmouth and the late George Gipp upon Notre Dame. For want of a better word it can be labeled "Football It!"

October has shaken up the gridiron dope. Harvard looked to be headed for another good year, after smothering Yale as a climax last Fall, but the Elis have no cause to be pessimistic as they look forward to the renewal of the ancient classic at Cambridge. On the same day that Booth was leading the victorious Blue charge against Army, the Crimson was being overwhelmed by the Green horde from Dartmouth.

Washington and Michigan were at the peak just a few years ago, yet each finished the October route with three successive defeats. In two seasons the Wolverines have lost more games than they usually drop in a half dozen years.

Princeton failed to win a single major game in October. To show how swiftly the mighty tumble, Georgia Tech has been beaten twice and eliminated from the Southern Conference race after holding the championship two years in a row.

Where consistency is a rare virtue, Tennessee and Detroit possess the most noteworthy winning streaks now existing in college ranks. Major Bob Neyland's Volunteers haven't been beaten since they dropped a decision to Vanderbilt late in the 1926 campaign. For 25 successive games, they show 23 victories and a brace of ties, one with Vanderbilt, and the other with Kentucky. And nothing has bobbed up so far this season to check Tennessee's big parade.

Detroit, coached by Gus Dorais, old Notre Dame star and famous as a team-mate of Knute Rockne, has run through 19 straight games unbeaten, untied. Detroit lost two battles in a row to Army and Notre Dame, early in 1927 but hasn't been stopped since, showing one of the few clean slates in the whole country last year.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press.)

Hauer, N. H.—Swede Youngstrom, Dartmouth line coach, has won the role of Albie Booth while the green scrubs are impersonating a Yale team. Or perhaps he is cast as two Booths. The 200-pound ex-guard, played the part of the distinctive Yale back in yesterday's practice and did it well enough to make some long gains against the regulars.

Washington, Pa.—Injuries may keep Jap Douds away from practice for a few days but they can't keep him out of a game. The Washington mid-Jefferson captain was out from last Saturday, when he was hurt through Wednesday's drill, but he got back yesterday, ready to tackle Lafayette.

Abbecon, N. J.—Navy has beaten Pennsylvania two years in succession by forward passes, so a two-day rest for the Penn players doesn't mean freedom from working on their aerial defense. The Quakers were out for an hour yesterday, using a fairway of a golf course for their football field as they tried to diagnose passes.

Cambridge, Mass.—Arnold Horween of Harvard believes in giving the keys of the stadium to the visiting team as well as an ordinary welcome. Horween called off all practice for the Crimson today in order to give Florida unobstructed possession of Soldiers Field for its drill.

New Haven—Scrimmage may be necessary to prepare Yale for the Dartmouth game, but Mal Stevens goes on the theory that it is more important to prevent injuries. Hence he called off yesterday's scrimmage because of a wet field.

Bill Freeman In Main Armory Bout November 8

As previously announced, there will be no bouts at the armory tonight, but on Friday, November 8, some of the National Guard's most outstanding ringmen will mix it in the local drill shed.

Captain R. C. Lawson, athletic officer of the First Battalion, 154th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, has arranged a card that he expects will pack the drill shed. If the bouts do not draw any better than the last two shows, Major O. R. Hillebrand threatens to close shop.

The National Guard bouts are supposed to be run on a strictly business basis with checkups going in to the Guard boxing headquarters at New York. Major Hillebrand, commander of the First Battalion, 154th Field Artillery, demands that future bout returns show a profit, so if the best of fights is not strongly patronized the show likely will end all National Guard athletic activities in this city.

But Captains Lawson and Jimmy Ambrose, matchmaker of the National Guard, are confident that next Friday's bouts will draw well. They have matched some of the best boys they could find in the Guard to make up the following card:

10-Round Feature.
"Big" Bill Freeman, West Point, former heavyweight champion of the National Guard, vs. Jack Robinson of Kansas City, Mo., managed by the likes of Johnny Hayes, one of the cleverest boys that ever fought here.

Six Rounders.
Johnny Hayes and Roy Asher of West Point, whom he defeated last week in one of the most interesting bouts ever staged here, will meet next Friday. Asher, the West Point soldier, claims that he will knock out the clever Connecticut boy in the last round.

Asber was unable to get his "roundhouse" in the last show but in a same manner he did Solder Post several weeks ago. Post hit the canvas in one minute and 20 seconds of the first round. Roy Revia, whom "Big" Bill Freeman kayoed in New York, will be on the card. He is slated for six rounds with Gusher Smith, of the Connecticut National Guard. He soldiers with Johnny Hayes and is said to be of the same fighting calibre.

Frenchy Dawg of this city and Kid Eckert of Port Hamilton, where the tough regular soldiers come from, are booked for a sextet of stanzas.

Trount to Fight.
Jerry Trount, who knocked out Charlie Garrison, another local boy, in the third round of last Friday's boxing show, will be on the card for a four rounder. His opponent has not been named, but a tough man will be picked for Jerry as he has a wicked right hand that likely will send him high in the soldier boxing ranks if he continues to use it as he did in his fight with Garrison. The tilt marked Trount's first ring appearance.

Fans who patronized last week's armory bouts were well pleased with the card. It is expected that they will be back for next Friday's bouts with plenty of others who appreciate good fights and who are interested in seeing the ring sport kept going in this city.

Noted Speakers At Conference On Evangelism

At the conference on evangelism held by the Methodist Churches of the Kingston district at Trinity M. E. Church Thursday, there were many noted speakers present. The Kingston district was represented by the Rev. Dr. George A. Shaban and Harry H. Flemming of Kingston, the Rev. Charles Ignall of Catskill and the Rev. J. Elmer Gates of Saugerties. The district commission on evangelism is working in accord with the plan of the Federal Council of Churches to make the 199th anniversary of Pentecost—June, 1930—a landmark in Christianity.

At the afternoon session on Thursday, the Rev. F. H. Neal, pastor of the St. James M. E. Church, presided, and after a devotional period of singing and prayer, the Rev. Dr. Wilbur W. White, president of the Biblical Seminary, New York City, spoke on the vitally important evangelistic subject of "Personal Persuasion."

Dr. White said that the subject had been assigned to him and he had been trying even before the present address to bring to it every possible valuable and helpful thought, consequently he was full of overflowing with his subject. This subject he divided into four divisions:

First, "Who is to be persuaded?" Second, "Of whom are people to be persuaded?"

Third, "By whom are they to be persuaded?" Fourth, "And how are they to be persuaded?"

In such a report as this it would be impossible to adequately portray the atmosphere of spirituality that permeated the entire conference, ecumenical being entirely lost sight of in an honest, straight thinking, sincere effort to make way for this evangelism that shall make Christ real to men, so that they will follow and be led by Him, as the highest means of celebrating the Pentecostal anniversary.

Those to be persuaded were, according to the speaker, who someone described as "The whole world lying in the lap of the evil one"—pleasure seekers of every sort.

But he laid the most of his emphasis upon the second topic, "Of whom are men to be persuaded?" making it vividly plain, from Christ's own words, that the answer must be not only Jesus Christ, but also God, the Father. They two are one.

Christ said He could do nothing of Himself. He was always with the Father and the Father could not work without Him. That gave the two witnesses of Christ, required by the Hebrew law, and there was still another, John the Baptist. But John had his limitations as a man. He declared that it was only by the Holy Spirit that we can be saved, that Christianity must be a reproduction of Christ's life of the spirit.

The speaker warned against a usurpation of authority in zeal to persuade the sons of men, for even Christ could not do what He was not authorized to do. He pointed to the Scriptures as the way to find Christ, not an end in themselves.

The work of persuasion was not to be carried on by the clergy alone, but by every child of God. Among the great persuaders he counted the mothers and teachers of the world who had lived Christ lives. By those lives one could learn how to best persuade others to come to know Christ.

All of which is but the merest skeleton of what Dr. White said so forcefully.

"District Program"
The second speaker was the Rev. Dr. Leopold A. Nies of the New England Conference, who spoke on the "District Program." Any such program calls for team work and the district is the unit around which the work of the church revolves. This particular program, following a financial program, etc., must be one of spiritual work, to develop the personal life of the un-Christian members of God's kingdom. But the program must fit local conditions to be really effective. This work should be in the nature of a crusade for Christ in the church and should have three major objectives—an increase in the attendance of the present members of the church; a deeper spiritual life of the church membership; the Christianizing of every member of the constituency of any church community outside the church. Dr. Nies told how in one church, in the fall of 1928, the attendance had increased 100 per cent, the spiritual life had deepened and the Christianizing of every member of the constituency had been accomplished.

The Four Aces To Appear At Legion Victory Ball

The Four Aces, well-known vocal and instrumental quartet which has recently been featured on the air by the National Broadcasting Company, will personally appear at the American Legion Victory Ball here on November 11.

The group was organized five years ago and made its professional debut at the Club Deauville, Park Avenue, New York. Their success immediately brought them recognition among society folk and a great deal of their time goes to engagements for socially prominent persons.

They have played extensive engagements in the leading night clubs in New York and were featured at the Stanley theatres for several months.

Members of the quartet are: Harry Hill, first tenor; Al Perry, second tenor; Charles Anderson, baritone; and Joseph Markese, bass.

The Four Aces are noted for their close harmony as a male quartet, for their original comedy and for their skill with banjos and other musical instruments. In other words, they are a whole show in themselves, but they will be only part of the galaxy of the stars that will entertain at the Victory Ball.

all of the best people of the church were urged to pledge themselves to attend church at least once a Sunday. This had increased attendance 90 per cent. Then the speaker made it plain to his fellow preachers that the spiritual life of the churches depends tremendously upon the men in the pulpits. There must be a renewal of the spirit of Christ in their hearts, they must be shot through with prayer and become filled with the spirit of Christ Himself. He illustrated with several instances of a revitalizing of the preaching end of the church and its results in spiritualizing the people in the pews, or on the streets and in business places. And this great work must be done, not that the minister may win people to Christ, but that Christ may have His children brought to Him.

The address by A. L. Schwab, merchant of Staten Island, a member of the Dutch Reformed Church there, was unique and valuable. He spoke on "Results of Visitation Evangelism As Seen by a Layman," and not only did he describe this work in detail as he had seen it begin and develop on Staten Island, but his illustrations of the spiritualizing power of this means of winning men to Christ were most persuasive.

The afternoon's program closed with a remarkable Round Table conducted by the Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reiser of the Broadway Temple. No newspaper report could adequately convey the effect of the quiet but powerful reality of Dr. Reiser's own Christianity as shown in the life stories that illustrated the points he wished to make for Christ. There was no professionalism, if one might use the word in such a sense, but a naturalness that was most convincing. Dr. Reiser astonished his hearers by the many instances he gave of business and professional men who had been asked for every sort of service for the church, but had not been asked to become a follower of Christ in the church. It was a challenge that he put straight to his fellow preachers. There was inspiration and conviction in all that he had to say.

Mount Vernon's Fronts
There are two fronts on the Washington mansion at Mount Vernon, as there always were in Colonial times when a home was built on the banks of a river. The phrases "land front and water front" run through books on the subject of Colonial houses.

Development in Town of Hurley

Several New Homes Have Been Erected in Both Old Hurley and West Hurley During Past Few Months.

During the past several months there has been a great development going on in the town of Hurley both at Old Hurley and at West Hurley and today the town is probably one of the fastest growing towns in the county. Several new houses have been erected during the past few months in both places.

John H. Saxe, former county clerk, who developed Cool Ridge Park at West Hurley has about completed the development of Riverside Park at Hurley. This development is located along the Kingston-Elleville state highway and borders on the Esopus creek thus affording not only good highway transportation but boating, bathing and fishing. The development overlooks the creek with the Catskill mountains as a distant background. Owing to the close proximity of Riverside Park to Kingston, its good mail service and ease of transportation the development has been an all round home proposition. Since the development was commenced a few months ago Mr. Saxe has erected attractive homes with all improvements or has sold building sites to the following people:

George G. Bates, Jesse D. Sahler, Joy A. Saxon, Charles Joy, Jason Baker, Daisy Tompkins, S. F. Ten Eyck, Arthur E. Snyder, Caroline Evary, Harvey Kurline, Sherman J. Short, Samuel I. Keyser, Percy Osterhoudt, Albert C. Lahl, John A. Shuttis, Richard Warren, Samuel A. Kennedy, Abram V. Van Aken, Anton Donnestad, Orpha C. Parslow, Emma Snyder and Daniel B. Froyland.

Therefore in the selection of a gem quality should be the first consideration.
